Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana Should Be on the Democratic Ticket

WHAT is the matter with Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana?

Why is the boss contingent NOT for him?

He is one of the ablest men in the Senate.

He has a wonderful record on an immediate issue.

He does not belong to the souse brigade—he is dry.

He has made an admirable presiding officer of the convention.

He has every claim to be on the Democratic ticket; and still the boss contingent is not for him.

The Tammany crowd say he is too dry, and the boozing, bootlegging, ex-bartending faction of Tammany are opposed to him on that account.

They are willing to have a man who votes dry and acts wet. But that kind of man is a fraud and is just as likely to deceive the wets as the drys.

Such a man would be without character and without honor, and the convention might just as well nominate an out-and-out wet like Smith—wet in principle as well as practice.

A consistent, conscientious dry candidate is what the country demands and the only kind of a candidate which the country will vote for.

Then again, Senator Walsh's wonderful service to his country and to his party in the oil investigating committee, which exposed the corruption in the Harding administration, is urged by the boss contingent as an argument against Senator Walsh.

These bosses say the big financial interests are opposed to exposures of this kind and against any man who is responsible for such exposures. The bosses think they will get no contribution to the Democratic campaign fund from the big interests if a man like Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who has exposed their corruption, is put on the Democratic ticket.

But are the Doheny campaign fund and the contributions of other big interests more important in the eyes of Tammany Hall and the other Democratic State machines than the votes of the citizens and the commendation of the public everywhere, irrespective of party, for Senator Walsh's great service?

The real question before this convention is whether the Democratic party is to be run by Tammany and the other subsidized Democratic machines in the interests of the wets and of Wall Street, or whether it is to be run by uncontrolled delegates in the interests of the decent Democratic masses? Current Events

NO POSITIVE NEWS of the convention, as this was written after the afternoon adjournment, but it looks like a break-up of the deadlock.

The "practical bosses" have got together and mean to jam something through. Those that have watched them for forty or fifty years believe that they will do it.

THEY BROUGHT McAdoo's vote down to 413, below his original starting point, and predicted a greater drop for last night's session. The latest dispatches will tell you about that.

One thing is sure, if he must go down McAdoo will go down fighting. And it will be admitted by his enemies that he made a wonderful fight. Every political boss, and all of the high finance by which the political bosses are fed and maintained, were united against McAdoo.

"TRAVEL FORMS youth, when it does not deform it." While Ritola won the Olympic 10,000 metre race, beating the world's record, which belonged to him, by 12 and 1-5 seconds.

Ritola, born in Finland, came to the United States when ten years' old, had his training here, and went back to win glory for his native country in France.

ONCE ABILITY to run 10,000 metres at such high speed might have meant the saving of a kingdom. Now it means only an interesting achievement.

An automobile costing a few hundred dollars will go the distance in less than half the time. A flier will fly it in less than a quarter of the time. Wireless will carry any message seven times around the world in a second. The muscles in your legs are not as important as they were. But the gray matter in your brain and the training of that gray matter is just as important. Young gentlemen might remember that.

ENGLAND CLINGING to the idea that to be an island is to be sober. The British government definitely decided yesterday against building a tunnel under the channel between France and England. "Imperial defence" is the reason.

But England is an island no longer. The air, not the ocean, is the fighting place today. No more Napoleons will wander up and down the French side of the channel, wondering how to cross.

FRANCE can declare war on England at eight in the morning and destroy London, including the King's palace, conveniently at ten o'clock that same morning.

However, conservatives drop old ideas reluctantly.

MISS ESTHER MORTON SMITH, of Philadelphia, niece of the late Joseph Wharton, a Newport resident in Summer, tells the world that Newport is "afflicted with immorality and drunkenness." Miss Smith finds bottles on the lawn of her Newport cottage, thrown by servants of the neighborhood. There are flasks on the hips of young gentlemen that dance or go down to the beach. And where you have "hard liquor" used by the young you are apt to have immorality.

But prohibition, which for the present seems to include bootlegging, must have its opportunity. The people have decided upon that.

ELKS FIGHT FOR RULER IS BITTER

Cambridge Candidate Opposed by Strong Machine From the Middle West

By BERT FORD.

The contest for grand exalted ruler waged today by Charles F. J. McCue of Cambridge, New England's favorite, and former Attorney-General John G. Price of Ohio, standard bearer of the Middle West, was one of the bitterest fights fought in years in the Grand Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT.

The fact that the campaigns conducted on behalf of both candidates were silent did not curtail the keen enthusiasm and bitter rivalry beneath the surface.

"Charlie" McCue's supporters realized that they were opposed by a strong machine candidate and that made them fight all the harder.

Interest in the outcome was so widespread that crowds choked the lobby and approaches of Tremont Temple all day, awaiting the result

U. S. BEATEN IN 800 METRES

Olympic Stadium, Colombes, France, July 8 (AP)—Great Britain conquered the United States in the feature event of the Olympic games for the second straight day when D. G. A. Lowe, teammate of Harold Abrahams, winner of the 100-meters yesterday, led a brilliant field to the finish in the 800-meter final event this afternoon.

It was the team work of the Britons that gave them the victory, for H. R. Stallard, the favorite, set a terrific pace for three-quarters of the way when Lowe came through with a burst and broke the tape in 52 2-5 seconds, only a half second slower than the time of Meredith's world's record.

The four Americans in the event failed to match Lowe's perfectly-timed sprint, but Martin of Switzerland sprang a surprise, coming from nowhere in the stretch and taking

RALSTON'S VOTE GOES TO 1871-2

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 8.—With the McAdoo strength hammered to a new low level, and Smith about holding his own, the Democratic National Convention today lifted Senator Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana to a new point of vantage in the balloting for a Presidential nominee.

As the umber of roll calls mounted into the nineties, Ralston rolled up a vote higher than had been attained by any other candidate except the two leaders.

Ralston's total on the ninety-first ballot was 187½, a gain of 9½ votes since last night. There were indications that it would go even higher on the next few ballots.

To the strength he had developed at adjournment last night were added several important blocks of votes, including Missouri's 36, Kansas' 20, Nevada's 6 and Oklahoma's 20.

BREAKING UP STARTS.

So far there had been no definite signs of a stampede, but the evident breaking up of the situation started a new crop of rumors and there was an ever-increasing activity on the convention floor on behalf of those who have been waiting hopefully for the hour of dissolution to come.

Dropping to its lowest point since the voting began a week ago today, McAdoo got only 315 votes on the opening ballot today and his strength fluctuated about that figure on the succeeding poll calls.

Some of the wisecracs believed that the final and definite collapse of the McAdoo strength was imminent. Meantime the Smith forces, on the other hand, were holding fairly steady.

In the belief that an end to the

BURNS IS FINED IN VETS' CASE

William H. Burns and Albert Doucette, former officers of the Massachusetts Disabled Veterans of the World War Inc., were fined $500 and $400 respectively, by Judge Morris in United States Circuit Court today for using the mails in a scheme to defraud and for conspiracy.

The defendants were tried and found guilty in two courts each last spring.

Indictment of Burns and Doucette followed an investigation, which disclosed that the two officers of the organization sought financial aid for disabled veterans in a fraudulent manner, using the mails for soliciting contributions.

The organization represented by Burns and Doucette formerly occupied offices in City Hall. Several well-advertised campaigns for funds were conducted by the organization.

Burns was the active head. He became a well-known figure about the city and made many public appearances at meetings held in behalf of wounded and disabled veterans. He served for a time at Camp Devens.

Both defendants were held in custody of United States marshals until they raise the fine.

LAST RITES FOR COOLIDGE BOY

Washington, July 8 (I.N.S.)—Calvin Coolidge, Jr., will be buried at Plymouth, Vt., according to funeral arrangements discussed at the White House today.

The tentative plans, which have not yet been officially decided upon call for brief servies in the East Room of the White House at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge would then take the body of their youngest son to their old home in Northampton, Mass., on the Federal Express, leaving Washington four hours later.

Funeral services would then be held in Northampton on Thursday

EXPLOSION SINKS RUM BOAT CORNERED IN CREEK BY POLICE

CANS BOB UP AFTER BLAST

Chased into a small creek emptying into Dorchester Bay by the police cutter Watchman today, a motorboat, suspected of being a rum runner, sank a few yards off Freeport street, Dorchester, after an explosion aboard.

Joseph Olsen, 32 years of age, of Vining street, Malden, was rescued from the water and taken to City Hospital. He is suffering from several burns.

It is believed there was another man aboard and that he went down with the motorboat, on the strength of that theory the police boat Edwin U. Curtis is standing by, waiting for the tide to go out.

TAKES ZIGZAG COURSE.

The Watchman sighted the motorboat in the upper harbor about daybreak and the crew immediately challenged.

Instead of stopping to explain their business the men on the motorboat put on speed and pursued a zigzag course, apparently to dodge possible shots.

At the creek they circled about as if in doubt, but when the Watchman drew in close they turned their bridges and went up the shallow stream.

Biggest of the police navy, the Watchman was unable to follow without danger of beaching. A man was sent ashore and telephoned the headquarters of the Harbor Police for assistance.

The Curtis, smaller and more wieldy, was sent out and negotiated the creek without difficulty. Just as she approached the motorboat, however, the latter blew up with a roar which awakened any late sleepers that might be in that part of Dorchester.

Olsen was conscious when he was taken out of the water, but he could not or would not talk coherently. When he was asked what kind of boat it was that had sunk he only mumbled unintelligible phrases.

CANS RISE TO SURFACE.

When he was asked whether the explosion was accidental or otherwise, he muttered something about gasoline engine, and then said he was in great pain and begged for medical attention. He was burned on the face, arms, legs and body.

While the Curtis was standing by scores of empty one and five-gallon cans began to arise to the surface.

Although, the police said that did not prove the boat a rum runner, they declared they were pretty well convinced that was what she was.

It is possible that at low tide the boat may be salvaged and the contents inventoried.

TRADING TO END CONVENTION DEADLOCK

Weary Delegates May Get Together Today or Tomorrow and Pick a Dark Horse

long deadlock might come before the end of the day, all sorts of efforts were being made to bring out a new string of dark horses and to quicken the pace of those who have been getting wearily through their preliminary steps through nearly a hundred ballots.

LITTLE TUMULT.

An attempt was being made to swing Oregon and Idaho from the McAdoo column to Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, and to throw the strength of Illinois behind John W. Davis.

Despite the plain evidences of a shakeup in the entire situation, the changing of large consignments of votes was accompanied by little of the tumult that usually attends such movements in national conventions.

For the most part, the delegates took it very calmly. A week of work in the hot convention hall, and the constant humdrum of the roll calls had turned almost to routine what ordinarily might have been a stirring spectacle.

Each succeeding gain for Ralston was cheered by the Indiana delegates, and a few others in other parts of the hall joined with them, but there were no prolonged demonstrations and almost the only activity on the floor was the scurrying of the campaign managers from delegation to delegation in an effort to bolster up their lines.

TAGGART IS BUSY.

Taggart was working everywhere, and was surrounded always by a group of State leaders who were

'Tom' Taggart

asking him a thousand and one questions. The McAdoo managers were trying frantically to hold what was left of the once dominating McAdoo forces, and the Smith men likewise were clinging tenaciously to their delegates.

A bitter row developed in the Ohio delegation. W. W. Durbin, one of the delegates at large, was working to run up the Ralston total in that State, and Edmund Moore, the Cox manager at San Francisco four years ago, was fighting against any reduction in the total that was going to Governor Cox.

On the ninety-first ballot Moore challenged the accuracy of the vote as cast by the delegation chairman and demanded a poll.

Later the Ohio delegates settled their troubles among themselves, however, and reported with 16 for Ralston and 19½ for Smith with the vote scattering.

The leaders stood this way on the 91st ballot:

Smith 355½. McAdoo 318½. Ralston 187½. Davis 66½.

Smith lost one and a half, McAdoo gained four, Ralston gained 28 and Davis gained two.

FAVORITE SONS HOPE.

In a broken field and amid many uncertainties the convention tried again today to settle upon a nominee for the Presidency.

With both McAdoo and Smith below the total necessary to exercise a veto, the favorite son group took renewed hope and kept up its humming attack, but with no very clear results.

As delegations left the leaders they scattered their strength so widely that some of their managers feared a new deadlock might result between a new set of candidates.

Temporarily at least, Ralston of Indiana had the advantage among the favorite sons and Thomas Taggart, his manager, appeared on the convention floor when today's session opened ready to drive on to what he hoped would be a nomination of his candidate before tonight.

MAY FORCE PEACE.

At the same time, however, both the McAdoo and Smith managers showed signs of a renewed effort to lift their candidates back above the one-third vote. Some observers believed there might be disposition to let the McAdoo and Smith men develop their full strength, with the purpose, if neither was nominated, of opening peace negotiations for agreement on a compromise candidate.

The supporters of Robinson of Arkansas, Glass of Virginia, Davis of West Virginia and several others kept their men conspicuous in the picture meantime, in the hope that when the time came for a compromise, they would be able to command a full share of attention.

Called to order at 11 o'clock, today's session began with an invocation by Rev. Francis Potter of the West Side Unitarian Church, New York city, followed by the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by Madame Tsuaki Miura, a Japanese opera singer.

A resolution expressing the grief of the convention at the death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was offered by Rabbi Stephen A. Wise on behalf of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and was adopted by a rising vote.

Then the convention started its day's work with the eighty-eighth ballot.

AWAY FROM McADOO.

As the first rollcall of the day went forward, it was apparent that the overnight discussions of the party chiefs had had no immediate material effect on the situation. As State after State returned the same vote it had cast on the last ballot last night, some of the most experienced of the war horses on the floor admitted they did't know where they stood, or in what direction events might be moving.

One feature of the opening rollcall was a gradual slipping away of McAdoo votes here and there, mostly in lots of one or two votes. Ralston was picking up his share of them.

Just before the convening of the convention, about twenty McAdoo leaders, representing most of the States that have been contributing to the McAdoo column, had a conference of an hour and a half with their candidate.

The word was sent out afterward that the fight would be continued, and that McAdoo was not considering a withdrawal. He was said to have been told that some of the delegations that had swung away from him would come back.

SHIFT TO DANIELS.

After this conference there was a revival in reports that further attempts would be made to put through a resolution abrogating unanimously the unit rule and the two-thirds rule. Such a proposal was voted down yesterday.

In North Carolina on today's first roll call McAdoo suffered a loss of a dozen votes when the State went almost solidly to Josephus Daniels, who heretofore had received only a scattering vote of two during the long grind of balloting.

The leaders stood this way on the eighty-eighth ballot:

Smith, 362; McAdoo, 315.5; Ralston, 98; Glass, 66.5; Davis, 39.5.

ROOSEVELT'S STATEMENT.

This was a gain of half a vote for Smith, a loss of eighteen for McAdoo, a gain of two and a few high record for Ralston. Glass lost four and a half and Davis seven.

The next roll call ran along about like its predecessor, except that McAdoo got back one by one some of the votes he had just lost.

Ohio, caucusing on the floor, asked for a delay when its name was called in regular order, and when the Oklahoma vote was cast for Senator Owen a member of the delegation challenged it and called for a poll.

From his place in the New York delegation Franklin Roosevelt, field marshal of the Smith forces, issued a statement declaring the delegates now realized that McAdoo never could be nominated and were becoming convinced also that Smith is 'the logical man.'

HARRISON FOR RALSTON.

Issuance of the Roosevelt statement followed various futile attempts of the compromise candidate promoters to get some of the Smith delegations to break to Ralston.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi circulated, under the direction of Taggart, among delegates urging them to "get on the band wagon." Everywhere, however, Smith men said they were going stay with the Governor.

The announced ambitions of the Smith forces, coupled with the apparent determination of the McAdoo forces to stay by their man, rather nonplussed the compromise camp.

The poll of the Oklahoma delegation resulted in ten votes for Owen and seven and one-half for Ralston, with the remainder of the delegation absent. Under the unit rule the State's twenty votes were cast for Owen.

On the eighty-ninth ballot the leaders stood:

VOTED TO NAME KLAN.

They voted solidly to name the Klan and they said that Smith's religion only was preventing his nomination.

Now they have a chance to vote for Walsh, who is also a Catholic, but they are turning their backs upon him.

They are against Walsh because he is dry. Some of them are secretly against him because he happened to be the one who exposed Doheney's dealings with Fall in the Teapot Dome case.

UNDERWOOD OR DAVIS.

The Massachusetts delegates may turn to Underwood, who is wet, or to John W. Davis, counsel for J. Pierpont Morgan. Some of the most prominent bankers in Boston are here working for Davis and for Carter Glass, who is also acceptable to Wall Street.

Although the Massachusetts and Rhode Island delegates refuse to vote for Walsh delegates from New Hampshire, which has many less Catholic voters, have voted for Walsh several times.

BAY STATERS TURN AGAINST T. J. WALSH

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

New York, N. Y., July 8.—Delegates from Massachusetts and Rhode Island to the Democratic National Convention are today standing in the way of the nomination of United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana for President.

The two delegations came here quite solidly for Smith, but realizing that he had not one chance in 100 of being nominated because so few delegates were pledged to him outside of the Northeast.

VOTED TO NAME KLAN.

They voted solidly to name the Klan and they said that Smith's religion only was preventing his nomination.

Now they have a chance to vote for Walsh, who is also a Catholic, but they are turning their backs upon him.

They are against Walsh because he is dry. Some of them are secretly against him because he happened to be the one who exposed Doheney's dealings with Fall in the Teapot Dome case.

UNDERWOOD OR DAVIS.

The Massachusetts delegates may turn to Underwood, who is wet, or to John W. Davis, counsel for J. Pierpont Morgan. Some of the most prominent bankers in Boston are here working for Davis and for Carter Glass, who is also acceptable to Wall Street.

Although the Massachusetts and Rhode Island delegates refuse to vote for Walsh delegates from New Hampshire, which has many less Catholic voters, have voted for Walsh several times.

ADMITS FRAUD

Lowell; William P. Ordway, City Club, a drygoods merchant; Joseph J. Cole, No. 3 Henderson avenue, Worcester; Frank L. McGovern, foreman, No. 75 Merrolla street; Fred B. Taylor, electrical supplies, No. 37 Sumner street, Salem, and Ralph W. Clark, No. 6 Wheeler avenue, Worcester.

Lamount, arrested outside an All-ston luncheon on April 19, was in Brighton Court today to answer to charges of intoxication and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The latter complaint was dismissed, as it appeared he was not operating his car when he was found. The drunkenness charge was filed.

TWO ARRESTED IN KIDNAPING OF EX-WIFE

Mother of Gordon Girl Forgives Watson; Remarriage to Follow

Newburyport, July 8.—Bertrand Watson of West Newbury and Everett Watson of New York city were arrested today on charges of abducting Marian Gordon, 18-year-old daughter of Harry L. Gordon of Oakland, Me. Mrs. Gordon, who caused the arrest, later became reconciled to Bertram Watson and agreed to drop the complaints.

Bertram Watson was married to Miss Gordon a year ago. It was a runaway match, culminating in a wedding at Portsmouth, N. H., where a justice of the peace presided. The girl's parents pursued, recaptured her and had the marriage annulled in the Maine courts. The ground of annulment was that the girl was under age.

Watson waited until she was old enough to marry without her parents consent. On the last day visited Oakland with his brother, Everett, in the latters' sedan.

FORCED INTO CAR.

After failing to engage the services of Marian's chum, Miss Mathewman, to aid in kidnaping the girl, they found her in the street about 9 o'clock in the evening and forced her into the car. Constable Herbert Kelley witnessed the kidnaping and pursued. Watson was forcibly made, Kelley organized a posse of riflemen and gave chase, but the Watsons with the girl escaped, through their knowledge of central Maine byways.

Mrs. Gordon secured warrants for the arrest of the Watson brothers from Judge Charles W. Atchley of the Waterville, Me., court. They were taken at the home of their father in West Newbury today and brought to this city.

At the police station a reconciliation between Bertram Watson and Miss Gordon was effected. The couple will be remarried at once.

MEMBER OF CHURCH.

Miss Gordon is a member of the Oakland Universalist Church choir and is popular with people of all ages in the village. Her father is a prominent citizen and has been averse to Watson's attentions to his daughter from the start. In this city today, however, Mrs. Gordon agreed to assist in overcoming her husband's objections to the match.

Bertram Watson is many years his bride's senior, his age being variously given as between thirty-six and forty years. His father is a builder in West Newbury and Bertram is associated with him in business.

GIRL SLAYER OF BROTHER MAY GO FREE

New York, July 8.—While District-Attorney Arthur Rowland of Westchester county will go through the motions on Thursday of pressing the murder charge against Anna Bobar, 14, of Yonkers, who stabbed her brother, John, 15, to death, it is doubtful whether the grand jury will indict the girl.

A child under 16 cannot be indicted for any of the manslaughter degrees in this State, and premeditation, which is the necessary element in an indictment for first degree murder, is difficult of proof. Anna killed her brother after he had accused her of being a "bad girl." Investigation reveals that she is subnormal mentally, and attends a special class in Yonkers school.

The probability is that Anna's fate will be decided in the children's court, where she would be classed a s juvenile delinquent. Agents of the Children's Society say the girl does not yet seem to realize the seriousness of the crime.

STRAY GUN BURNS BOY'S HAND BADLY

Manuel Thomas, sixteen, of No. 80 Orient avenue, East Boston, was a belated victim of the Fourth of July celebration when with several other boys he found a pistol with some blank cartridges in Paul Revere Park, Revere, where there was a bonfire the night before the Fourth.

While examing the gun it was discharged and his left hand was badly burned. He was treated by a physician and later taken to his home.

GARMENT WORKERS REACH AGREEMENT

New York, July 8.—The Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association voted to agree to the demands of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, which were approved by Governor Smith's arbitration commission.

The agreement was a complete surprise to union officials, who had made preparations for a walkout of 50,000 workers tomorrow.

GEORGIA DELEGATES APPEAL FOR FUNDS

Atlanta, July 8.—A communication soliciting donations from members of the State Legislature to help defray expenses of Georgia delegates to the Democratic National Convention was read in the Lower House. The petition probably will be read in the Senate today.

'I'D GIVE MY LIFE FOR ONE HOUR WITH MILDRED,' BARING CRIES

WIFE-POISONER GOES TO MADHOUSE CELL

New York, July 8.—"I'd give my life for one more hour with Mildred before going to the madhouse."

But Clarence O. Baring, who was sentenced to expiate his mad crime of wife poisoning in Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, started to-day in his living tomb without even one precious glimpse of pretty Mildred Beam, the school teacher to whom he sent out this last desperate cry.

While Baring paced his cell contiguous to the White Plains Court House, scene of his trial, the American came into possession of his confession. His lips, mute during the protracted trial, were unsealed when, in his cell, he realized the full horror of his future among his mad fellows.

And the vain and desperate appeal he cried through the cell bars—an appeal unheard by the women to whom it was addressed—is here exclusively revealed.

LOVE NEST REVEALED.

Baring said he had a "love nest" in Manhattan where his affair with Miss Beam pursued its course and for the first time he cried the motive behind his insane plot:

"Thirty seconds of Mildred's company was worth thirty hours of the company of my wife."

The rest, said Baring, was in West Fifty-second street, and was rented on February 1, 1922.

Speaking to space Baring told over to himself and to listening jail attendants the story of his seven months of costly romance in the exquisite little West Side street.

"We golfed, wined and dined together. The little girl was charmingly frivolous at first. Lately how serious she became—so serious. Poor Mildred.

BELIEVED IN HIM.

"We met in 1920. We sealed our engagement with a thousand kisses and I gave her the engagement ring in 1922. We planned to marry in May, 1924—that May has come and gone.

"A honeymoon on an Atlantic liner was what she wanted. She had such implicit confidence in me. She used to smile with pleasure when I called her Little Bright Eyes.

"Her only term of endearment was 'dear' but the way she said it, it meant such a tremendous lot."

Although Miss Beam's name was most frequently on Baring's lips as he poured out his unsolicited confession, District-Attorney Arthur Rowland, who plainly considered the sentence to Matteawan the final disposition of the case, said that the Elmbeth physical culture teacher would now be spared public appearance.

"I am perfectly satisfied that Mildred Beam had no part, no knowledge, no thought of Baring's attempt to poison his spouse."

In their recommendations to the court Drs. William L. Russell and George H. Kirby, alienists, followed to the letter the insanity report which was given in the press a few hours earlier.

When court was convened the district attorney announced without comment that insanity had been found. Judge William Beakley promptly voided Baring's bail of $25,000, committed him to the county jail and reappointed the same doctors a lunacy commission with power to recommend a court finding.

REVERE HOMES LOOTED OF $800 CASH

Two Revere homes were robbed of nearly $800 in money and jewelry, one in broad daylight.

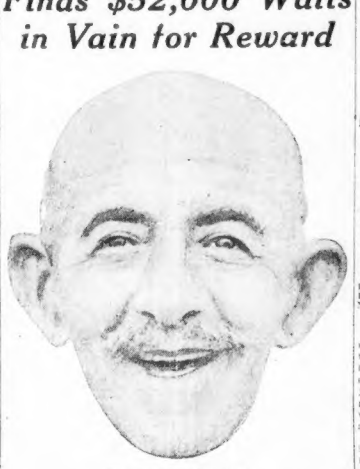
The home of Mrs. E. J. Lord, No. 37 Bickford street, Point of Pines, was looted while she was away and while two guests, Charles E. McCarthy of No. 6 Willow street, Dorchester, and Starr Parsons of No. 74 Central avenue, Lynn, were in bathing.

McCarthy and Parsons returned to the house to find their gold watches, money and other valuables gone and the house thoroughly ransacked. The total in cash taken was more than $700. A neighbor said she saw a young man leave the house with a bundle. The thief broke the glass in the rear door and turned the key from the inside.

John Brown and family of No. 24 Warren street, Revere, went to bed early owing to the heat, and as they slept a thief forced a screen in one of the bedroom windows, walked through a room in which three children were sleeping, entered Brown's room, and took a gold watch and $50 in money, in the dining room he found $25 more.

Neighbors saw the stranger in the house and telephoned the police. When officers arrived the thief had gone. Brown was aroused by the officers.

Finds $52,000 Waits in Vain for Reward



CHARLES BROWN

Salem man who found bag containing $52,000 in cash and bonds. He turned it over to a mysterious Dr. McKnight, who claimed ownership of the fortune. The doctor promised Brown a house as a reward for his honesty. Brown has seen neither Dr. McKnight nor the house since, but he is still living in hopes.

Salem, July 8.—Charles Brown, sixty-five-year-old park department employe, cogitated over an after-dinner pipe today on the gratitude of man.

A mysterious "Dr. McKnight of Taunton" lost a bag containing $52,000 at Salem Willows. Mr. Brown found the bag. He was on the point of turning it over to the police when its owner arrived to claim it. There was $2,000 in one dollar bills and $50,000 in gilt-edged bonds in the bag.

Several municipal employes, including police officers, heard "Dr. McKnight" promise to reward honest Mr. Brown.

"Like to give you some of this cash," he said to Brown, "but it belongs to my sister. We'll fix you up handsomely, however. Do you own your house?"

Brown was attired in the garb of a city laborer. His overalls and shirt belied the possession of property or much cash, so the mysterious "Dr. McKnight" promised to see that Brown got a house for himself.

BROWN'S WIFE ANGRY.

Now Brown, honest from sunup to bedtime, is a firm believer in the old axiom: "Virtue is its own reward. He cared not much who the stranger was, so long as he identified the bag and its contents.

Brown didn't as much as ask "Dr. McKnight" whence he came. Nor did the physician vouchsafe much information concerning himself.

But Mrs. Brown when she heard of the find had different ideas.

She paused in her after-dinner "clearing-up" to say these things:

"I don't believe we will ever hear from that "Dr. McKnight." It seems to me a shame that a man should be so ungrateful. He might have handed my husband a few dollars in cash for returning that great sum of money.

"Now if my husband was not an honest man he might have kept those securities and the cash in the bag. No one would have known it. But we are not of that type of people. He's a hard-working man, my husband, and we're far from being out of the poor class.

"If this 'doctor' wants to show his gratitude by giving us a house you can bet we won't refuse it. But I don't think he will. Glad enough to get his valuables back, though, wasn't he? Some men are hardboiled when it comes to money.

LIVE IN MODEST HOME.

"Well, if he or his 'sister'—if it's she that owns the valuables—doesn't offer to do something for my husband, they're pretty poor samples of American men and women," Mrs. Brown concluded.

The Browns live in a modest two-story house at No. 75 Columbus avenue, Arthur Larabee owns the house they live in.

Dr. McKnight, according to Mrs. Brown, lives in East Taunton. A friend of the Brown family located Mrs. McKnight there today. Nothing was said about rewarding honest Mr. Brown of Salem.

SEPTIC POISON ALSO KILLS JERSEY BOY

Bayonne, N. J., July 8.—The death of a nine-year-old boy from septic poisoning which started from a blister similar to that in the case of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was revealed today. Wilmot J. Notes, son of Harry Notes, died after having been under care of physicians for several days.

Less than a week ago a small cut in the palm of his left hand developed into a blister from which the septic poisoning spread throughout his body.

"LEAGUE" FUND PLEA HIT BY GEN. EDWARDS

"Don't give them a nickel," was the reception of General Clarence R. Edwards, State commander of the American Legion when he was told that an organization known as the National Disabled Soldiers League is flooding Boston with appeals for aid for the disabled service men.

23 MORE FILIPINO SCOUTS ARRESTED

Manila, July 8 (A.P.)—Twenty-three alleged leaders of a secret clique, formed among the Philippine Scouts to advance demands for allowances and pay equal to those given white soldiers, were arrested at Fort McKinley today.

Eight were arrested previously.

The mercury began mounting for new altitude records today in Boston as sizzling folks stuffed handkerchiefs under their melted collars and unbuttoned their warm purple jackets. With the mounting temperature came a degree of humidity which made the heat more unbearable, especially indoors.

Forecaster Loveland offers no relief for today, except that which may be brought by local showers which may arrive from time to time during today and Thursday. He predicts humid, rather than excessively hot weather for the parade on Thursday.

The mercury in the glass atop the Postoffice Building registered 86 at 1 o'clock, as against 83 at the same hour on both Sunday and Monday, and 68 on Saturday.

The East wind which had been bringing relief faded out in the night and no return of its soothing influence is promised for today or Thursday.

THREE FLAMING CROSS MEN MOBBED

Three young men caught near a flaming cross on the Metropolitan Park reservation, between Lynn and Nahant, narrowly escaped with their lives from an angry mob.

The cross, twenty feet high, was fired at the Half Way Tree, midway between Lynn and Nahant just as hundreds of pleasure seekers were returning from a dance at Nahant. A street car, passing at the time, was stopped and the motormen and a number of passengers ran to the cross.

A number of automobiles also drew up as the three young men were fleeing. The mob attacked the young men and gave them a severe beating before some of the wiser heads prevailed upon the mob leaders to turn the men loose.

The automobile in which the trio are believed to have carried the cross to the place where it was erected and fired is in the hands of the Metropolitan police. The car bears license tags issued to Charles C. Oliver of Lynn. Oliver and another youth named Perkins are now awaiting trial on an appeal from fines imposed several weeks ago in connection with firing of a Klan cross.

A hat bearing the initials "C. C. O." is also in the hands of the police, having been left behind by one of the young men fleeing from the angry mob members.

At the same time the cross was being fired at the Half Way Tree, another was set on fire in Bailey's Hill, in the Wyoma section of Lynn.

Flaming Cross on Farm in Hingham Causes Stir

A Ku Klux Klan cross, fifteen feet high, was discovered flaming on the farm of Frank Lovell on Beals street, Hingham.

The blaze illuminated the entire section for a time. Then the firemen arrived and extinguished it. The cross was constructed of boards about which rags saturated in kerosene had been wrapped.

Lovell was not at home at the time the cross was discovered on his property. He denied any knowledge of how it came to be constructed and ignited. Police are on the trail of the perpetrators.

CHARLESTOWN YOUTH IS HELD FOR JURY

Probable cause was found by Judge Sullivan in Charlestown Court today in the case of John O'Donnell, twenty, of No. 442 Main street, Charlestown, charged with assault with intent to rob Edward Young of Main street, Stoneham, Sunday June 29. He was held in $500 for the Grand Jury. O'Donnell was arrested by a Policeman Thomas Trey of City Square station, after a long chase in which four shots were fired. Two other young men, it is said, were with O'Donnell at the time of the alleged attack.

Senator 'Tom' Walsh to Wed, Says Rumor

New York, July 8.—Mary had her little lamb; Samuel, the Sailor, had his own troubles with the Old Man of the Sea; being unmarried, Senator Thomas J. Walsh's particular burden is the hardy rumor that he is going to marry himself off to somebody.

In New York the rumor has been revived.

This time the woman nominated by the society reporters for the post of first lady of the Walsh household is Mrs. J. Borden Harriman.

MUSSOLINI TO MEET NEW CABINET TODAY

Rome, July 8 (A.P.)—The first meeting of Premier Mussolini's reconstructed cabinet was to be held today, when it is expected that plans will be discussed for placing Fascism on firmer ground between now and the convening of Parliament next November.

The government's program for what is called "normalization" of the country will be set forth by the Premier. Mussolini will deal largely with the political situation brought about by the disappearance and alleged murder of Socialist Deputy Matteotti, and also with foreign relations.

TRIO INDICTED IN $40,000 RUM RAID SEIZURE

Federal Jurors Also Return Bills Against Three Others, Charging Dope Sales

Joe and Jacob Hauck and Henry Barnett, who were arrested some time ago when $40,000 worth of liquor found in Indio Wharf was confiscated, were indicted today for illegal transportation of liquor, by the Federal Grand Jury.

The jury, which has been in session for many days, reported to Judge Morris.

Sadie Henderson, Leon Comissky and Harry H. Colcord were indicted for alleged unlawful sale of drugs. Narcotics valued at $100.00 were seized in the Henderson woman's apartment on Commonwealth avenue not long ago. Colcord, her alleged accomplice, is said to be known to the police of many countries.

COURT BALKS BONUS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, July 8 (I.N.S.)—The proposed amendment to the State Constitution providing for $25,000,000 as a soldiers' bonus will not be voted upon in the Fall election.

Supreme Court Justice Simpson today ruled that the proposed amendment was unconstitutional and ordered the Dauphin County Court, which he reversed, to issue the injunction asked by the Pennsylvania State Grange, to stop the Secretary of the Commonwealth from taking steps to have the measure put on the ballot.

THOUSANDS AT WORK AS PLANTS REOPEN

At Haverhill the Witherell & Dobbins Company, producers of women's form shoes, resumed operations today after a shut down of two months.

Tailer Brings Sand From South For His Private Links, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

WHEN T Suffern Tailer built his very special golf course at Newport, he didn't overlook a thing that would make his links the delight of every golfer thereabouts.

Recently Mr. Tailer went to the trouble of having no less than 400 tons of sand freighted up from Maryland to fill the traps. This sand is much whiter than that used in Newport and previously used on Mr. Tailer's course, which is known as Ocean Links.

Since the new course of the Newport Country Club has been remodeled at an expense of $100,000 and Mr. Tailer is constantly improving Ocean Links, chasing a little white pill over the greensward is perhaps the chief sport at the famous resort.

John Nicholas Brown, who received his sheepskin from Harvard two Junes ago, is seen very frequently on the links, as are also such well-known folk as Cyril B. Judge, Charles S. Whitman, Dudley Davis, James S. Cushman and the Countess Laszlo Szechenyi.

NEWPORT this season has the largest Summer colony it has had in a decade. Though the Boston colony is nearly as small as it has been for quite a number of years, not a few members of the Hub smart set visit the Queen City during the season.

Miss Eleanor Musgrave, daughter of Mrs. Edith D. Musgrave of Marlboro street, recently was in Newport as the guest of Rear-Admiral and Mrs. Cameron McR. Winslow, who are of the few Bostonians Summering there. With Miss Musgrave was her fiance, Mr. John Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt, who make their Winter home in Louisburg square, recently had as guests at "Oakland Farm" Mr. and Mrs. John Hall of Boston.

MRS. L. CUSHING GOODHUE

Mr. and Mrs. Seabury, whose marriage was solemnized on May Day at Emmanuel Church, returned but a short time ago from their wedding journey abroad. They have taken a cottage at Beverly Farms, where they will become members of the year-round colony.

Society Notes

MR. AND MRS. EVANS RODICK, JR., are this Summer occupying the Bartlett estate at Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. William Cabot is spending the Summer in Marblehead at the Munroe cottage.

Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean has returned to "Pride's Hill Kennels" at Montserrat, following a sojourn in Vermont. Mr. McKean returned at the same time from a fishing trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cabot have sailed for Europe with their son, Edward C. Cabot. The family, whose Winter home is now in Santa Barbara, Cal., spent the early part of the season at their Manchester-by-the-Sea estate.

William Deaton of Chestnut Hill, Pa., has taken for the season "The Sumacs," the Manchester estate of the George Wigglesworths.

Mrs. Henry B. Endicott, with her son and daughter, Samuel Endicott and Miss Katharine Endicott, is at the Beverly Cove villa.

19 INDICTED AS QUACKS ON COAST

San Francisco, July 8.—Indictments against nineteen physicians, involving allegations that they operated "diploma mills," or were beneficiaries of such operations, were voted by the Grand Jury.

Among them was Dr. Robert Adcox under sentence for bribery in Missouri.

The voting of the indictments followed a hearing by the State Board of Medical Examiners, at which Harry W. Brundage, St. Louis reporter, was a witness.

Those named besides Dr. Adcox and nine Californians are: Dr. Daten Alexander, Kansas City; Dr. Waldo Briggs, St. Louis; Dr. John R. Brinkley, Kansas City; Dr. B. H. Jolly, St. Charles, Mo.; Dr. Frank J. Kenney, Baltimore; Dr. Albert Scheffsky, St. Louis; Dr. Ralph Voight, St. Louis; Dr. William P. Sachs, St. Louis; Dr. P. H. McKinley, St. Charles, Mo.

FIGHTING DOGS' LIVES SPARED BY COURT

Eighteen Were to Have Been Executed July 17; Owner Promises to Be Good

Springfield, July 8.—Eighteen valuable fighting bulldogs whose execution was scheduled for July 17, no longer face death. Judge Healy in District Court issued an order to stay execution after conference with police and representatives of Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The dogs are part of those seized in raid on premises of Amos A. Messier of No. 39 Maple street, Mittineague, June 8. Fifteen dogs were taken in the raid, but within a week three litters of pups were born, increasing the number to thirty. All the canines excepting the three female dogs and their little ones were put to death and Messier on a $250 fine.

URGES LAWYERS TO SET 'IDEALS OF NATION'

Robert E. Sanep of Texas Declares They Are Real Defenders of Constitution

Philadelphia, July 8.—A plea that the lawyers of America "take back to the people the true conception of constitutional government," was made by Robert E. Lee Sanep, of Dallas, Texas, president of the American Bar Association, in addressing the opening session of the annual convention of that body today.

Lawyers and jurists from all parts of the country are here for the meeting, which will continue through Thursday.

Attorney General Harlan F. Stone and United States Senator George Wharton Pepper also spoke today.

"Lawyers are, or ought to be, familiar with the constitution and history of government as well," said Mr. Sanep.

"They ought to know the responsibility which rests upon them to impart this knowledge to the people by private and public expression, they are, or ought to act, on political matters in conformity with the highest ideals in good government and not for political pelf or party prestige."

Having observed "a growing bitterness toward the Federal courts," said Senator Pepper, "which, if not checked, may easily develop into a revolutionary sentiment," he had made a review of industrial injunction history within the last few years.

He declared that during the coal miners's strike of 1922 nearly every one of the railroads applied for injunctions and that no application was denied, nearly 200 orders being issued.

"Naturally enough," continued the senator, "there have been bitter protests from the ranks of labor. To the striker it seems like tyranny to find such vast power exercised not by a jury of one's neighbors, but by a single official who is not elected but appointed."

TO POSE FOR ARTIST CHRISTY

VIRGINIA LEE BOYER AND HER TWO CHILDREN

Revere woman, who once was world famous as the girl with the "million dollar legs," was second prize winner in the recent country wide "most beautiful mother and children contest," and as part reward is to have her picture painted by Howard Chandler Christy, New York artist.

REVERE MOTHER ONE OF 'MOST BEAUTIFUL'

Christy, Famous Artist, Will Paint Picture of Mrs. Virginia Lee Boyer

Virginia Lee Boyer—famous on two continents as the girl with the "million dollar legs"—and now living in quiet domesticity as the wife of W. F. Boyer, ex-naval officer, at No. 497 Revere Beach Boulevard—packed up her belongings today and with her husband and two babies left for New York where Howard Chandler Christy will paint her picture as one of the nation's most beautiful mothers.

Mrs. Boyer will sit for her portrait according to the terms of a country-wide contest of beautiful mothers and children, in which she won second prize.

The affair was conducted by the Lever Brothers Company, makers of Lifebuoy soap.

In a modest two-family house on the boulevard, the girl who at one time was the toast of connoisseurs here and abroad with her beauty and who is said to have had eleven men waiting in New York to marry her following a European tour, washes her own dishes and mothers her two small children, like an ordinary housewife.

Mrs. Boyer was formerly the wife of Carl H. Wheeler, son of a local millionaire towel manufacturer, whom she married in 1921. Parental disapproval is said to have followed the entrance of the beautiful "Follies" girl into the social circles of the Wheelers.

WOMAN SHOT IN ROW OVER LOAN IS DEAD

Brockton, July 8.—Miss Linda Paine, 38, who it is alleged was shot by John Paponis, her employer, yesterday, is dead. The shooting took place at No. 87 Spring street where Paponis lived, and where Miss Paine acted as his housekeeper. It is charged the shooting followed the refusal of the women to make a loan to Paponis. Six shots were fired, three taking effect.

BIG MARKET CLOSED ON DAY OF PARADE

Faneuil Hall Market will be closed at 3.30 p. m. Thursday, July 10, the day of the Elks' parade. The City Council have given authority to the superintendent of markets to this effect.

ENDS LIFE WITH RAZOR IN FIELD

Milford, July 8.—John Savitski, aged thirty-five years, No. 16 Green street, committed suicide today by cutting his throat with a razor in a field near his home. He was found by his wife. He was living when found and said he wanted to die. He expired in Milford Hospital an hour later. He leaves a wife and two children.

SOCIALISTS WIND UP CONVENTION

Cleveland, O., July 8 (U.N.S.).—Domestic is most important subindorsement of Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, for the presidency, the Socialist party convention devoted its final session today to perfecting plans for launching immediately a nation-wide campaign in the national and State elections this November.

With the exception of Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates, the party decided to back independent Socialist tickets in the field all over the country.

87,000 NEW ELKS AND 26 LODGES ARE GAINED DURING THE YEAR

TIME RIPE FOR BIG WELFARE MOVEMENT, SAYS REPORT

of the balloting. Both sides claimed to be sanguine of victory.

Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger of Cambridge placed the name of McCue in nomination, amid great enthusiasm. As the Congressman was not a Grand Lodge member he was unanimously granted the courtesy to enter the hall where the Grand Lodge is holding its deliberations.

Price was nominated by Past Grand Exalted Ruler James S. Nicholson of Springfield.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The Grand Lodge sent a telegram of condolence to President and Mrs. Coolidge expressing profound sympathy over the loss of their son Calvin Coolidge, Jr.

The Grand Lodge session is the only weighty feature of the 60th annual convention, was one of the largest attended in recent years. Before noon 2,000 delegates were checked up. The high previous mark was 1923.

The nominations was the first matter taken up. Reports and resolutions followed the nominating speeches, both of which whipped prolonged applause. The two candidates were give nan ovation.

While the members of the grand lodge held their business session at Tremont Temple, thousands of other delegates and ladies attended the varied entertainments which marked today's program, including an elaborate program on Boston Common.

BAND CONCERT.

In addition to the business conclave session there was a band concert at the Parkman bandstand on Boston Common by the Cowboy Band of Dallas, Tex. Still later 2-platoons, Blue Devils and other militars and semi-military units gave drill exhibitions at Braves' Field.

Report was submitted by former Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania, a past exalted ruler and chairman of the memorial commission.

The commission, in its report says that the National Memorial Building now under construction in Chicago will cost about $2,500,000 and will rank with the Lincoln Memorial and the Amphitheatre in Arlington Cemetery as an enduring memorial.

Grand Exalted Ruler McFarland in his annual report pointed out with pride the fact that 87,000 new members were enrolled last year and that twenty-six new lodges were granted dispensations. He laid scress on the importance and phenomenal success of the Elks Magazine. He suggested changes in the general plans of the Elks National Home in Bedford, Va.

He urged the progress of the National Memorial Headquarters Build ing in Chicago and advocates a National Grand Lodge Welfare movement in keeping with the fine traditions of Elkdom.

"I believe the time has arrived to consolidate and definitely plan for a National Grand Lodge Welfare movement," added Grand Exalted Ruler McFarland. "Whether it is to be a work of general or specific hospitalization, or some broad educational campaign, or a great and unique Americanization program, or the creation and maintenance of some other agency or institution for the welfare of the people of this and future generations, should only be determined after a thorough survey and report by such committee or commission as you may determine. I recommend the creation of such an agency to report at our next annual meeting."

AMENDMENTS OFFERED.

Several statutory amendments are recommended, among them one providing for the revenue of the Grand Lodge which reads:

"Annual dues to be paid by each Elk on the roll of membership of each subordinate lodge, the amount of which shall be fixed by resolution of the Grand Lodge each year, and which shall be collected by each subordinate lodge as a part of its own lodge dues and for the transmission of which from its own funds subordinate lodges shall be responsible to the Grand Lodge."

This does not affect the collection of any balance necessary for the completion of the National Memorial Headquarters Building, which has been left optional with the subordinate lodges. More stringent rules are recommended for the dispensation of a new lodge, and with regard to the election of new members.

A budget system is suggested for the financial guidance of the subordinate lodges in line with that of the United States and that of the Grand Lodges of the Order.

One of the outstanding features items of the report of Grand Exalted Ruler McFarland was the announcement of plans submitted and approved by him and the Grand Trustees for the building of sixty new Elks Homes in various parts of the United States, the amount to be expended for the work totalling $5,000,000.

A tribute was paid to the late President Warren G. Harding, an Elk, to whom tribute was paid by every subordinate lodge in the country.

Since 1880 the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks has paid out $18,180,635.81 in practical charity and a total of $30,180,635.81 in 43 years beginning in 1871, according to the annual report of Grand Secretary Fred C. Robinson. The largest amount paid out in any year was in 1923, being $2,432,641.50.

CHARITY INCREASED.

Annual charity disbursements have been steadily increasing, the amount in 1921 being $2,044,218.07 and in 1922 it was $2,017,561.50.

During the year lodges received in membership by initiation and affiliation, 87,717; suspended or expelled, 229; stricken from the roll for non-payment of dues, 52,355; dimitted, 14,720; deceased 8,782.

Twenty-six new lodges were formed with a net increase of 11,631 in membership making an aggregate of 1404 and a grand membership of 839,429.

"For the second time in its event

Mrs. Helen Fitzgerald, Revere.

ful history of sixty years," said Grand Secretary Robinson, "the Grand Lodge is again the delighted guest of the city of Boston—a city outstanding in the patriotic, intellectual and commercial life of a great nation, which had its humble beginnings in this immediate section more than 300 years ago.

The Grand Secretary's report further discloses that the banner year for increased membership since the inception of the order in 1868 was in the year 1920-'21, with a growth of 121,983 members and the previous year came second with a total increase of 118,156.

Mayor Is Proud of Gold Elks' Medal Presented Him

When you see Mayor Curley around during convention week, ask him to let you look at the beautiful gold medal that the Elks have presented to him.

He will gladly show it to you, for he appreciates it very much.

He is wearing it on the left lapel of his coat. It is a specially designed gold Elks' medal and was presented to the Mayor by the executive committee of the Elks and Boston Lodge by Dr. Francis X. Mahoney of the executive committee.

ELKS MAKE MERRY ON FLOATING HOTEL

TAKING TEA ABOARD SHIP

Photo shows a party of Philadelphia Elks and their fair guests enjoying afternoon tea aboard the S. S. Voltaire, their floating hotel. Insert shows pretty Peggy Hogan, of the Quaker City delegation, going a little further by having "breakfast in bed." The Philadelphians set out for Boston intent on having the time of their lives, and these pictures are proof that they are doing it.

QUAKER CITY ELKS ENJOYING ALL COMFORTS

Is Quakertown, frequently referred to as Philadelphia, they are devoted to solid comfort. They have positive ideas about the proper way to go to a big convention.

When plans were being made for this 1924 convention in Boston some of the antlered leaders of the herd went into executive session.

"Shall we take a chance on getting hotel rooms?" asked one. "Shall we, maybe, be put away in lodging houses?" wailed another.

"Shall we risk our digestions by partaking of strange cooking?" queried a third, who likes the good things of the table. "Something ought to be done. There ought to be a resolution."

So there was, and as a result 600 elite of Quakertown are "doing" Boston from the S. S. Voltaire, which is docked at Commonwealth Pier. They certainly know how to do things, and are enjoying a combined convention, sight seeing tour and houseboat party.

The Voltaire was chartered at an expense of $100,000, according to the Philadelphians, and would be cheap at twice the money.

After the heat and burden of the day, the delegates return to wind-swept decks, perfect meals, music in the moonlight, outside stateroome.

They awake to the gentle rocking of their floating hotel, begin the day with pep, and end it the same way. What Boston delegates want to know is "Who said Philadelphia was sleepy?"

"We've come to wake Boston up," explained Charlie Q. Finley, treasurer of the Philadelphia lodge, when he was asked about the startling activity of the crowd from the city of perpetual sleep.

They promise big things for Thursday, which will be parade day.

THREE PRIM BUT HAPPY QUAKER MAIDS

Saginaw Elks Have Most Colorful of Delegates

The Saginaw, Mich., delegation, which is sleeping in Pullmans in the Back Bay railroad yards and eating at the Lenox, is the most colorful aggregation attending the convention.

The delegation is arrayed in purple jackets and bloomers, grass green sashes and white leggins. The drill squad wears purple velvet jackets trimmed with white satin, white bloomers and white leggins. The band is arrayed in blue uniforms of a fancy cut.

When the delegation marched to the Copley Plaza to pay its respects at headquarters, thence to Tremont Temple, folks with weak eyes put on smoked glasses.

Judge C. N. Brown, who heads the delegation, was dressed in a formal morning suit.

When that is over the tradition of Quakertown drowsiness will be forever dispelled, they promise.

Part of the delegation will march in the Mummer's Parade which is a feature of the annual New Years procession of Elks in Philadelphia.

Some charming Quakeresses are on hand and will march with the men, among them being Mrs. William Drew, Mrs. James Carr and Mrs. Sebastian Quehenev.

Miss Marie Murphy and Miss Hagen of the Ladies' Auxiliary are among the popular young women aboard the Voltaire.

ELKS' PARADE TO HAVE HEAVY POLICE GUARD

Elaborate plans have been made by Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley for the safety of the hundreds of thousands of persons who will witness the big convention parade of Elks Thursday afternoon.

In orders issued today to captains of police divisions, plans for instructions for the direction of automobile and vehicular traffic between 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. on parade day.

CLOSED TO TRAFFIC.

The following streets will be closed to vehicular traffic during these hours:

CAL COOLIDGE, JR., FIRST OF ALL WAS REAL HUMAN BOY

TOOK DELIGHT IN GAMES; WAS AMBITIOUS STUDENT

Washington, July 8 (Universal).—The death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., serves to bring forth the life story of a very human boy.

Calvin was full of pranks. He delighted in harmless games at the expense of his older brother, John. His father's entry into the White House did not quench his spirits, but both of the sons were reserved to the point of self-elimination after Coolidge succeeded the highest office.

Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was born April 13, 1908, in Northampton, Mass. He was reared in the unpretentious 433 a month house in which his parents lived.

AN ARDENT STUDENT.

He was precocious, finishing grammar school courses when only seven years old. He studied two years in Northampton High School and entered Mercersburg Academy, Pennsylvania, in the Fall of 1921. He would have been graduated from the collegiate preparatory and have gone in Amherst College next September. He was an assiduous student, and always near the head of his class.

Calvin did twelve months' work at the Academy. His "vacations" since 1921 were spent in farm work. He was under contract with a Massachusetts dairy farmer in August, 1923, when President Harding died, and his father became Chief Executive.

The boy worked out his contract.

TENTS HIS GAME.

Calvin was always frail. His height was five feet eleven—putting him an inch or better over his father—his weight not more than 130 pounds. He had grown quickly and his vitality was accordingly spent.

But the only sport in which Calvin engaged was tennis, the game which, indirectly, brought about his death. It was in a spirited set with his older brother on the White House courts that he developed the foot blister that was followed by general blood poisoning.

Calvin was about to go to Camp Devens, Mass., for a military course in R. O. T. C. at that place.

There are anecdotes about the self-effacing Calvin that rival those related of the hilarious Hoosevelt boys with their father was President.

Calvin frequently "pinched" John, who was his elder by nearly two years and his attempted mentor.

STEARNS' EULOGY.

One pair strolled down Pennsylvania avenue one evening not long ago. Calvin interested himself in pulling John's "collegiate" felt hat over his eyes. He got a bad calling-down after the two had returned to the Executive Mansion.

Calvin was a canny lad, and not to seriously inclined as Joan. Frank W. Stearns, the President's intimate, said while Calvin was in the early stages of his illness:

"President Coolidge could 'train' John, but not Calvin.

"He had a wonderful disposition. He was a real American boy."

These were the words of informal eulogy from the unemotional Stearns today.

LAST RITES HERE

with interment at Plymouth on Friday.

The body was brought back to the White House at dawn and placed in the historic East room. Photographers were barred.

GUARD OF HONOR.

Six sailors from the presidential yacht Mayflower, aboard which Calvin Coolidge, Jr., has taken many trips with his father, and six marines were placed about the casket as a guard of honor. The flag on the White House once more was flown at half-staff. A spray of white roses and white lilies of the valley with a background of green, tied with a large white ribbon, was placed on the front of the White House.

Calvin Coolidge, Jr., was the first son of a President to die in Washington since Tad Lincoln passed away in his father's arms at the White House in 1862.

Calvin had grown rapidly in the last two years and was consequently frail physically. He was five feet and eleven inches tall—an inch taller than his father—and weighed 115 pounds.

WIDESPREAD GRIEF.

The regular Tuesday Cabinet meeting was called off today. Shortly before 10 o'clock, President Coolidge, plainly showing the strain, went to the executive offices to receive officials who came to offer their sympathy. Among those were Secretary of War Weeks, Postmaster-General New and Acting Secretary of State Wright.

Mrs. Coolidge remained in retirement in her apartment in the White House.

Thousands of expressions of sympathy reached the White House last night and today. Many were the official and formal ones from foreign capitals and officials in this country, but the greater number were the simple, heartfelt messages of mothers and fathers throughout the land who hastened to express their sorrow at the sudden death of the President's youngest son.

Neither Calvin, Jr., nor his 14 year-old brother John had a wide circle of intimate friends in Washington in view of the fact that both had been in school almost continuously since their parents have occupied the White House.

RESPECT OF ALL.

At the few official functions however, in which they have participated they had made many acquaintances and had the respect and admiration of all.

With his older brother, Calvin was spending a brief vacation at the White House with his parents before entering a citizens' military training camp.

While playing tennis with his brother on the White House grounds last Monday, Calvin blistered one of his toes of his right foot. There was a slight infection, but he applied some simple remedy and thought no more about it. The next day his foot and then both of his legs began to give him considerable pain.

When the pain began to spread into his body, he consulted his parents, who called the White House physicians. Their examination indicated septic poisoning and treatment was begun. It was not until July 4, however, that the public was advised of the boy's condition.

GREW WORSE.

From noon of the fourth he grew steadily worse and was finally taken on Saturday evening to Walter Reed Hospital for an operation. This was performed on the left leg, where the disease had located temporarily, but it became plain soon afterward that the poison was sweeping through the body so rapidly and so completely that nothing short of a miracle could save the boy's life.

With his father and mother at his bedside, and a half-dozen blood specialists and surgeons enlisted in the battle, Calvin made a brave and determined fight to live. His courage and strength in the face of certain death was a marvel to the physicians.

He rallied again and again, with the result that hopes were expressed yesterday morning that he would recover. During the afternoon gas began to form on the stomach and from that time on the boy's condition became graver. A noted stomach specialist was called into consultation, but his efforts to introduce food into the stomach proved unavailing.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION.

At 6:30 o'clock last night there was a collapse, but with the same fortitude that marked his illness from the start, Calvin lived four hours more, breathing his last at 10:30 o'clock.

Blood transfusions were resorted to in an effort to build up the poisoned blood and during the last few hours oxygen was administered. Calvin was born in Northampton, Mass., on April 13, 1908. He completed the grammar grades when he was eleven years old, attended the Northampton High School for two years and then entered Mercersburg Academy in Pennsylvania.

He was a good student, always standing near the head of his classes, and the only outdoor sport in which he ever engaged was tennis, the game which he was playing when he contracted the poison which caused his death.

"He was a real American boy," said Frank W. Stearns, one of the Presidents intimate friends, while Dr. Joel T. Boone, one of the White House physicians in attendance during the boy's last illness, described him as a "fighter, through and through."

"Calvin was one of the finest representatives of young American manhood," Dr. Boone said. "He wanted to live and he made every effort to live."

Three White House Tragedies in Last 3 Administrations

Washington, July 8 (Universal).—During the three last administrations, there have been three tragedies in the families of the Presidents—three deaths in the White House.

The first wife of Woodrow Wilson died at the White House during Wilson's first term. President Harding died in San Francisco during his occupancy of the Executive Mansion and now Calvin Coolidge, Jr., has passed away.

The last son of a President to die was Tad Lincoln, who died at the White House in his father's arms in 1863.

Father of President Feels Loss Keenly

Plymouth, Vt., July 8.—John C. Coolidge, father of the President, received word at his home here of his grandson's death. To those who called during the morning to offer their condolences, he was reserved in speech as is his wont, but it was evident that he felt the loss keenly. Pending further word from Washington, he said he had no plans.

The only way to use Boyce-ite is to use it CONTINUOUSLY

I mean that—every word of it—for the few complaints I have received about Boyce-ite come from people who have not used it regularly. To them I say, don't use Boyce-ite unless you intend to use it every time you buy gasoline and for at least 1,000 miles of car operation.

It is my honest opinion, that, poured into gasoline concentrated Boyce-ite creates the only fuel fit for your motor.

If you use Boyce-ite regularly you will find your gas mileage increased from one to six miles per gallon.

Boyce-ite used regularly in accordance with directions never under any circumstances has been known to fail.

My own personal experience and that of thousands on thousands of experienced motorists is proof positive.

It makes no difference what gasoline you buy. Boyce-ite works as well in high test gas as it does in low grade or vice versa.

Pour Boyce-ite in your gas tank as directed, every time you buy gasoline (no adjustment of carburetor is necessary) and you will not only find your mileage increased but you will immediately notice a greater flexibility, more power, easier starting and a velvety smoothness of operation that makes the old car seem a better friend than ever.

Further, you will never again have to pay for having carbon removed, valves ground or plugs cleaned—in those items alone Boyce-ite saves in dollars what it costs in cents.

And here's another warning. Beware of "carbon removers," "peps," cure-alls, camphor balls, kerosene, ether or alcohol compounds and other nostrums that claim to do what Boyce-ite does, but which actually contain elements that damage your motor and affect lubrication.

Look out for "essences" which like some of the old time patent medicines now under ban of the United States Government, relieve the cough but not its cause.

I have it on good authority that certain of these actually make exhaust of your motor dangerously poisonous. None of them is in any way like Boyce-ite nor ever will be, for Boyce-ite is a secret oily fluid that cannot be imitated.

You can recognize Boyce-ite at once by its peculiar individual odor.

Here's what Boyce-ite will do for you:

FIRST: After twenty-five to one thousand miles driving (depending upon the condition of your motor) carbon knocks will disappear and the motor will be running like new.

SECOND: Without any change in your carburetor adjustment, Boyce-ite will add from one to six miles to every gallon of gasoline you buy.

THIRD: If you use Boyce-ite every time you buy gasoline you will never again have to pay for removing carbon, cleaning spark plugs or grinding valves.

FOURTH: Your motor will not only run more quickly but will produce more power and will start easier.

Now go to any garage, automobile or accessory store or gas station in your city, buy two or more dollars' worth of Boyce-ite, use according to directions, and if you are not satisfied that what I have told you is an absolute fact, take your car to a regular garage, and if your trouble is due to carbon, I will pay for having that carbon burned out, if you will send me the bill.

Use Boyce-ite every time you buy gasoline. Used continually (not occasionally) Boyce-ite costs nothing as Boyce-ite saves more than it costs.

Marion Boyce

This convenient touring package of Boyce-ite fits the pocket of your car—carry Boyce-ite with you always.

MISS FRANCES BUDLONG

MISS BUDLONG MAY RELIEVE MOTHER

Might Wed Fortune and End Her Family's Financial Dispute

Newport, R. I., July 8.—Miss Frances Budlong, daughter of the Milton J. Budlongs, formerly of "The Reef," hasn't exactly been thrown on the mart for a wealthy husband but—

If he attractive young miss becomes engaged to one of the wealthy "catches" among the social set, Mrs. Budlong's financial difficulties that have beset her since she and her husband quarreled over money matters may end.

Mrs. Budlong, suing her husband for separate maintenance, has obtained a temporary allowance of $750 a month. No one can maintain social position here on such an insignificant sum as that, it is contended, and to date the Budlongs have been conspicuous by their absence from the social whirl in which the wife was a reigning hostess last season.

Mr. Budlong paid $60,000 for The Reef. He accused his wife of extravagance and said he borrowed the money to buy the big house just to please her. Mrs. Budlong and her children are now living in an unpretentious house on Kay street.

Hiker in Hub on 100,000-Mile Health Trip

One hundred thousand miles or bust.

"Happy Sam" Diamond, the modern troubadour, with banjo slung over his shoulder, told Mayor Curley that so far he has completed 70,000 miles in his tramp through 29 States in the United States, six in Mexico, six provinces in Canada and all of Cuba. He started on his trip February 1, 1922, to regain his health.

$1,000 REWARD FOR STOLEN FURS

One thousand dollars reward and no questions asked.

This sum has been offered under the conditions stated by M. Hochberg of the Opera Fur Company of No. 11 Avery street for the return of the $10,000 worth of furs stolen from his establishment by burglars on the Fourth of July.

Hochberg says the stolen furs are especially valuable to him since they were left for repairs by a large department store, whose patronage he is desirous of retaining.

When the robbery was first discovered, Hochberg made the charge that it had been perpetrated by a rival concern which, disappointed at failing to secure the contract for the repair of the furs, sought to discredit him with the department store.

CHARGE SAILORS WITH ATTACK ON 2 GIRLS

Two sailors stationed at the Charlestown Navy Yard were arrested today on a charge of attacking and robbing two girls. The sailors are Gerald F. Wall, age 22, and Wesley D. MacPhail, 18. The girls alleged to have been attacked are Frances Linginski, 15, of No. 36 Temple street, Boston, and Margaret Wysocke, of No. 75 Orchard street, Lynn.

According to the girls' story, they met the sailors on a Narrow Gauge train, and accompanied them when they left the train. At a lonely spot on Bennett street, the sailors are alleged to have attacked the girls and stole their handbag. The Linginski girl suffered a bruised arm. When the girls reached Lynn they notified the police, who watched Narrow Gauge trains and arrested the two sailors. They were identified by the girls.

Both men were held in $2,000 bail and MacPhail was further charged with the use of improper language to a person of the opposite sex.

3 HELD IN $25,000 ALTERED BOND CASE

Pittsfield, July 8.— John A. Marble, thirty-three Pittsfield contractor, of Pond & Co., Inc., of Boston, and George House, forty-seven, were arraigned at their camps at Lake Pontoosuc, charged with the larceny of $2,000 worth of Liberty bonds and bonds in stocks.

James Hunt, sixty-five, of No. 27 Baird street, Brooklyn, also was arrested on a charge of larceny in connection with the case.

The arrests followed a complaint lodged last September by a Pittsfield man, who told the police that the signature on a Liberty bond certificate that he had bought from Murphy had been erased and another name substituted.

TO COMMUTE DEATH SENTENCE OF MUIR

Ottawa, Ont., July 8.—Appealing to the Citizen, the Cabinet Council will commute to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Walter Muir. He was to be hanged Friday for the murder of Henri LaVoie.

Of course I'm tired by five

What busy mother isn't—with her cooking, cleaning and telephoning tangled up with social duties—and her darling kiddies frazzling her nerves all day with their romping and noisy fun?

But I have a husband, too. I want him to enjoy his evenings—to be his chum—to have some fun myself.

Let me tell you how tired Mothers may still be charming wives

Try this simple, five o'clock relief

GET into a tub of hot water. Rub creamy Lifebuoy lather deeply into the pores all over your body. Stay in the water until your nerves calm down and a delightful feeling of well-being diffuses through your body. Then splash cold water on your skin and dry it with brisk rubbing. Lie down for a few minutes and relax.

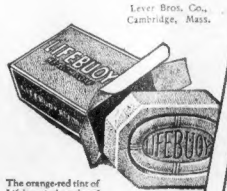
This is what happens

The gentle antiseptic in Lifebuoy exerts a peculiar soothing effect on the millions of tiny nerves just under your skin. It is these nerves becoming tired that brings on that unbearable irritation which makes you cross and depressed.

At the same time, Lifebuoy lather is opening and cleansing the pores, leaving the skin active and refreshed.

Try it tonight. You will welcome your husband with the old happy smile he loves. The evening will be joyous—the hard trying day forgotten.

Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.



The orange-red tint of Lifebuoy is the color of pure palm fruit oil. It has a quickly vanishing odor of wholesome antiseptic cleanness, which you will like.

—and the best habit your children will ever learn is to wash with Lifebuoy after play and before eating or going to bed. Lifebuoy removes germs and all the dirt, keeping the skin active, healthy and beautiful.

The Boston American Gains in Advertising Lineage Leads in Advertising Gains!

IF a man breaks a leg it is an accident.

If he then breaks an arm it is a coincidence.

But when he breaks his neck it is a habit.

The Boston American has been leading in advertising gains for months, but has waited six months to establish their consistency.

The figures are now available, and while the Boston American is an evening paper, its leadership in advertising gains extends to morning papers, too.

From January 1 to June 30 inclusive, the Boston American gained a total of 274,322 lines of display advertising over the preceding six months last year, which is more than can be claimed for any one of the seven other papers in Boston.

In May and June the Boston American carried more than double the classified tire lineage of all other Boston evening newspapers combined, and its growth from last to first place in radio advertising is one of the outstanding newspaper achievements of the year.

Last October the Boston American was far in the rear of all Boston papers as a radio medium, yet in the month of May it carried more local and national radio advertising than any other Boston daily, exceeding its nearest competitor by 7182 lines!

But no one kind of business is responsible for the Boston American's gains.

Radio is simply an example in an exhibit that is radial!

Advertisers are coming more and more to appreciate that a paper with a daily circulation of 240,000 copies and a recorded-hearth-and-home-delivered circulation of 60,886, is the logical medium to put their money in if they ever hope to get it back!

That is their conclusion!

AND THIS IS OURS—

Let the Gains of January to June—

Be your Guide for July to December—

And Put The American On The List!!

"No, it doesn't look." The rain swept in impetuous, wayward gusts across the pavement. "Great, isn't it? You'd get wet to the skin. Anyway, I'm driving your way." He gave her a quick look as she opened the door of a sedan at the curb. "Now, where—"

"I thought you were driving my way."

"I can, I can. May I not have the pleasure of dining with me tonight?"

"No, sir. My dates are distributed the first Monday of each month. By Tuesday morning there are none left."

"I don't believe it. You probably think it necessary to turn me down a few times."

Chickie laughed. "How very penetrating you are, Mr. Willman."

"Girls have such notions. I think a good many fine friendships are spoiled by all that bunk. Now, you're down here in this city alone. You must get lonesome. What do you find to do after office hours?"

The dark, lighted eyes went in frank curiosity over Chickie's face. He seemed very young and very eager. "I should think it a rather hard situation for a girl, especially a pretty one."

"You mean being alone? Why should it be harder for a girl than for a man. Do you have any difficulty spending your time?"

"Life is quite a different thing for a man."

"So I've heard. Why should it be?"

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia.—"I took the Vegetable Compound when I was passing through the change of life. I had been a sufferer for seven years. I would get a little better, then I would break down again. It would be hard for me to describe how sick I was. I had a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my right side, then I would have numb spells and I would think I couldn't live. I would have hot flashes, then would come weak spells. I was so weak I would think I could not get a meal ready. My work was a burden to me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has given me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. This summer I could do my housework and work in the garden a good bit. I tell all sick women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will gladly recommend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish this statement because it is true."—Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. N. 1, Box 36, Mannington, West Virginia.

"Ho, Adam! You mean you like the present arrangement and don't want it changed? You think a man should do as he pleases, but a woman must do what is right. Is that it?"

"Well—whether it's fair or not, women have held up the torch for centuries. Why should they fling it down today?"

Chickie felt suddenly depressed. But she managed to say airily: "Oh, perhaps their arms have gone to sleep stretched up stiff so long. It's all real deep, Mr. William. I'll scratch a few dates and think it over."

"I'll come around and help you with your meditation." They had reached the street where the boarding house was. They passed it.

How Many Bad Potatoes do you get?

There are some bad potatoes in every basket; they are a total waste.

Potatoes are 62% water and 15% peelings. More waste.

It takes from 35 to 40 minutes to peel and cook them — a heavy expenditure of both time and fuel.

Follow the example of the thousands of housewives who now serve Mueller-Macaroni, Elbow Macaroni, Spaghetti and Egg Noodles instead of potatoes.

It will be a big help and a big saving to you, and Mueller's, the Macaroni "with the better taste," is so appetizing and delicious that the whole family will be grateful to you.

'CADDIE GIRL' REPEATS ITS SUCCESS

The "Caddie Girl," the latest musical comedy success, by the Filene Co-operative Association, was presented last night at the Selwyn Theatre.

This is the second engagement of the show, which is undoubtedly the best show the Filene amateurs have ever put on.

At the last presentation of the show during the week of April 23, capacity houses were the rule every evening and last night virtually outdrawled that week.

After every effort was made to hold the show for a longer engagement than the one week of April 28, arrangements were made through Manager Fred Wright of the Selwyn Theatre for the present engagement.

"The Caddie Girl" was produced last night with the original cast and the perfection which marked its earlier performances.

Those responsible for the success of "The Caddie Girl," are R. L. Hartlow and Len W. Libby, who wrote the book, L. S. Bitner, who made up the lyrics, R. L. Harlow and C. A. Young, who composed the music, and New Wayburn, the director.

Among the principals are Leah Ainsworth, Helen Bingham, Harold Sloss, Cecille Connors, John J. Cuttart, Sally Goldstein? T. M. B. Picks, Harold Hodges, Chester Koch, Hammond Ladd, Elizabeth O'Grady, Thomas Quinn, Howard Remig, and Denneth Bowers.

"KEMPY" REMAINS AT THE ST. JAMES

In spite of the fact that "Kempy" had been advertised to close its run at the St. James last Saturday night, urgent requests from local Elks finally persuaded Managing Director George A. Giles to continue the brilliant Nugent comedy for another week. As "Kempy" is a comedy of American life as you find in a small town, it is natural that the central character should be an Elk, not that Elks are solely a small town product, but that they do form the center of social activity in most American centers.

Kempy himself was an Elk—and a good one, too. As Ralph Kemley of the St. James Company is also an enthusiastic Elk, the week just begun should take on the aspect of a six-days' reunion between actor and visiting brother. "Kempy" will close next Saturday, which also marks the end of the season at the St. James.

FENWAY OFFERS NOVELTY IN FILMS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THE first of the Famous Forty that will make up Paramount's contribution to the new season of screen entertainment has arrived at the Fenway under the title of "Unguarded Women." Viewed by any eye, the signs are encouraging, for you find Richard Dix and Bebe Daniels moving through a story that holds your interest with its novelty, giving the eternal triangle a new twist and proving to some extent that the ingenuity of the scenario writer still may be safely depended upon.

SPLENDID ACTING.

Unquestionably the screen has given us better stories—but none of them has been better acted or more faithfully presented. "Unguarded Women" was not an altogether happy affair, for it struck a tragic note early in the story and held it to the end. Mr. Dix, who is moving upward in filmland, turned in an intelligent performance, serving his art in a role that gave free action to his more or less solemn talents. He was always in familiar surroundings. Miss Daniels ran true to form, although the task imposed upon her carried less artistic responsibility than you might expect in a stellar role. And she completed her work as an artistic suicide.

"Unguarded Women" presented the unusual incident of a returned soldier committed to the defense and protection of a dead comrade's wife. It was not clear just how far the gay young widow wandered from propriety, but the inference seemed clear enough to the returning soldier when he found her involved in a doubtful liason with a member of the American colony somewhere in China. Whereupon you were given a touch of oriental atmosphere, with Mr. Dix adding his well-tuned composure to the proceedings.

DIX A SAFE ACTOR.

The story gave Mr. Dix much the best of the honors and again established him as a safe actor for a hard job. Miss Daniels had several reels of remorse and unhappiness for her share of "Unguarded Women," and Mary Astor, who had been featured in the cast, made sure work of a relatively small part.

In a production sense "Unguarded Women" was flawless, for which Alan Crossland should gather well earned credit.

COPLEY PLAYERS IN PLEASING COMEDY

"A Successful Calamity," a comedy in three acts, by Clare Kummer, was produced at the Copley Theatre by the Copley Theatre Repertory Company.

Clare Kummer's little comedy contains just the right amount of light humor necessary to offset the torrid heat of a summer's evening.

A trifle bald in spots by reason of its sentimental interludes, the play on the whole is distinctly worth seeing, as it is played by the Copley players.

Chester Wallace as Henry Wilton, the work worn father of a frivolous family, succeeds admirably in portraying a difficult role.

Whitford Kane as Conyers, the faithful family retainer, is exceedingly able in a part where there is no danger of becoming too sentimental.

Clarence, in the role of the rich and aimless suitor of Marguerite Wilton, is very likable. As is also Miss Rhy Darby, as Marguerite Wilton, the sensible flapper daughter of a wealthy business man.

The remainder of the cast succeeded in throwing a very realistic glamour over the whole.

DON'T GIVE UP DISCHARGE PAPERS

Buddies of the Bonus, here's a tip worth consideration.

Don't mail your discharge papers to Washington or to the American Advertiser Bonus Bureau when you write for an application, or when you file said application.

You will avoid delay and considerable trouble in adjusting the compensation due you, if you fill out your application as to service from memory.

In any event, don't mail your discharge papers to Washington or to this office. You want to keep those precious documents.

The American Advertiser Bonus Bureau is doing a "land office" business for the vets. Come in or write for information.

Address Boston American, Soldiers' Friend, Winthrop square, Boston, Mass."

S. Q., PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

Q—Please publish where the bonus applications are to be sent after they have been filled out.

A—Applications when properly filled out must be sent to the Adjusted Compensation Branch, Adjutant General's Office, Washington, D. C., if the veteran's last service was in the army or to the Bureau of Navigation, Washington, D. C., if the veteran's last service was in the navy or coast guard or to the U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., in case the veteran's last service was in the marine corps. The addressed envelope provided by the government with the application should be used and a two-cent stamp must be put on the envelope when mailed.

A. B., FALL RIVER, MASS.

Q—I enlisted in the army on October 18, 1917, and was discharged April 30, 1919. Please tell me how much my insurance will amount to.

A—If any part of your service was overseas, you will be entitled to a credit of $1 a day for each day of home service after deducting the first 60 days. From your length of service, no doubt you will be entitled to the maximum credit of $500, which when turned into a 20-year paid-up policy, will amount to about $1,750.

S. S., DRACUT CENTRE, MASS.

Q—I have filled out my bonus application and would like to know where to send it.

A—See answer to "S. Q., Portsmouth, N. H.," above.

CAN GET $1 A DAY.

MRS. E. E., CHARLESTOWN, MASS.

Q—My husband served in the naval forces at home from July 15, 1918, until September 17, 1921, when he was given a physical discharge for tuberculosis from which he died on May 19, 1922. How shall I go about getting the bonus and how much am I entitled to receive? I have not remarried.

A—You are eligible to make out a bonus application and we shall be glad to help you fill one out if you will call at our Bureau. You will be entitled to a bonus credit of $1 a day for each day of service, after deducting the first 60 days from the date your husband entered the service until his discharge, June 30, 1919.

MANY ELKS ON BILL AT KEITH'S THEATRE

"Hello Bill" is the slogan at B. F. Keith's theatre this week.

It will be Elks' Night at the theatre every night until the present bill is gone, for there are numerous "Bills" on the bill, and like all "Bills" they are good.

Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer, famous musical comedy stars, head a bill that is more than pleasing. They use as their vehicle a musical sketch called "The Little Revue." There is much singing and dancing of a high order.

Dale Campbell, tenor, and an Elk of no attraction himself. Then there are the Five Jolly Curks, all Elks. They give a touch of old-time minstrelsy and are the more modern entertainment. Yorke and Lord, comedians, are pleasing as are Mary and Ann Clark. In addition there are Frances and Frank Stan Kavanagh & Co. and Koo Tekt and Tekt, and the usual pictures. A decidedly entertaining holiday bill which should please the visiting Elks.

Continuing Shows

COLONIAL—Final week of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad."

TREMONT—Stasle and Blake in "In Bamville." Good for Elks and everybody else.

PARK—Norma Talmadge in "Secrets." In which Miss Talmadge proves her acting ability.

GAYETT—"Peek-A-Boo." Summer musical frolic that runs at high speed.

WILBUR—Fay Bainter in "The Dream Girl." Musical comedy with Walter Woolf helping things.

ST. JAMES—"Kempy." An Elk can comedy. Final week of the season at this house.

Coming Events

Leatrice Joy in "Changing Husbands" will be the photoplay attraction at the Fenway for a week, beginning next Saturday.

"Margery Daw," a musical comedy, with Elizabeth Hines, will come to the Shubert next Monday.

George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Candida," is announced as next week's play at the Copley.

BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By Wm. F. Kirk

ALL last week Pa was away up in the north woods fishing. As Pa nits he came home he gived a dinner, it was a fish dinner & those was ten suppers at our house to eet the fish.

Well, well, sed Pa, was they all got seated at the table, sayz Pa these poor fish with it ratched dreamt of wha a glorus fate was to be theres, sed Pa, to be devoured by so many reely bustiful ladies.

The ladys all smiled whin make them look seven more bustiful.

Lucky fish, sed Pa, to be taken from the chilly water & served up on silver beefore such a Flower of Buty, sed Pa.

I want a whole fish for myself, I sed.

Be still, Bobbie, sed Ma, do not interrup pure noadel father who he is having one of his Eildquint fites.

I think pure husband is as interesting and one of the ladys to Ma.

Indeed, sed Ma.

Yes indeed, sed the lady. Thoes were lucky carp to be caught by such a splendid Angler, sed the lady.

Thay seemed to lik it prity good, sed Pa. Thay smiled at me, even I was yanking out the hook, even wen it tore thare mouths, sed Pa. Fish is realy quite affeck-shunate, sayes the there hired is cold, sed Pa.

I think this fish is simply delishus, and the other lady. Did you pree-pair it yourself, dear, she sed to Ma.

Yes, sed Ma, that is one of the things I prids myself on, cooking fish.

Yes, sed Pa, my wife is a rare cook. It didn't talk me long to leech her how to cook things, sed Pa. She was a born Shef, sed Pa.

She is a beitiful Shef, I mite add, sed one of the gests, he was awful good looking & Pa dident like him any too good, Pa looked at him kind of savidge, I thot.

Then nobody sed nothing for a little wile, all of them was fuzzy eating fish, I was the fizzest because I got thru first & passed my plate for meat & Pa gived me sum more but he looked at me kind of sharp but I dident eair.

What a fine little man you are to be sure, sed one of the ladys to Ma. What is he going to be wen he grows up?

I am going to be a Congressman & git mine, I sed.

Why, Bobbie, sed Ma, what a speech.

You musent blaim him, sed one of the men, you must blame rotten poly-ticks. I am glad all that mess dident happen until after wimmen got the vote, he sed. If it had, ur gents wuld never of herd the end of it. But we common peopl, I fear, are like the fish, wich we are eeting at this fine dinner, he sed. From the time we grow up & git married, he sed, we are constantly gitting hooked, he sed.

Well, we had a fine dinner & I got a strumstick ake afterward but I deant cair, that is he no reel pleashur without sum pane, I red that in a book.

support La Follette for President, naming no Socialist candidate.

That might cost La Follette more votes than it would give. He would lose the votes of those who know nothing about the Socialist party and believe it to be a mixture of Communism, free love, atheism and other ingredients with which real Socialism has nothing to do.

FROM Shanghai comes news that the Chinese have found a George Washington to lead them. Chan Lim Hak is his name and, like our George, he is one of the richest men in his country, worth thirty million dollars.

It is one thing to have a George Washington for LEADER, quite another thing to have the right crowd of FOLLOWERS.

The right followers are at least as important as the right leader. You might send three hundred George Washingtons to lead the three hundred million inhabitants of India, and they couldn't throw off the British yoke.

UNITED STATES athletes set new records in five Olympic games yesterday.

Lacy Leegrdyo, of Newark, N. J., covered twenty-five feet six inches in the broad jump, bettering the world's record by three inches.

P. Morgan Taylor, of Iowa, covering the 400-metre lower hurdles in 52 3-5 seconds, broke another world's record.

An Englishman, Harold Abrahams, won the 100 metre dash.

Many races were represented. If they would, in ALL of life's efforts, compete on a friendly basis with each other, instead of hating each other, the world would be better off.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner

CONVALESCENCE from a serious illness is a period that frequently is given too scant attention by the sufferer.

Dr. Mahoney

When the ravages of fever or other disease are past the patient feels that he has gone through a great event and that he emerged safely from all danger.

It must be remembered that in your illness your body has passed through a conflagration of poison. This poisoning consists either of active germs or of the poisons or toxin products of the germs. Marked weakness is one of the features of your disease.

The illness weakens your heart just the same as it weakens the other muscles of your body. Therefore if your heart is subjected to undue strain during the period of convalescence the heart becomes enlarged and dilated. In some cases this overload of the heart results in death.

Two caution will avoid all these serious results. All physical and mental exertion should be carefully shunned. No effort should be made to build up an artificial strength with stimulants, such as alcohol or confirmed tea or an excess of food.

Depressing emotions or the "blues" should be carefully avoided and nature should be permitted to take her own method of restoring health.

The most critical period of your illness is the time when you start to feel that you are getting well and can start out and do a full day's work.

During the period of convalescence it is well to keep in touch with your doctor and carefully follow his advice.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

My face is badly broken out. It heals up and then breaks out again. I feel badly about it. Please tell me what to do, A. S.

I would suggest that you go to the skin clinic at the Boston Dispensary or the Boston City Hospital for diagnosis and treatment.

Is X-Ray and radium treatment for cancer known to be of value? My father has a cancer and is too old for an operation. MRS. A. F.

Radium and X-Ray are of useful-ness in certain types of cancer, such as those which appear on the skin of old people. In many cases they are useful in completing the surgical cure by healing a small lump which may appear after an operation. They are also considered as treatment for cancer which has gone too far to be operated on. The outlook for radium is very hopeful. Great care should be taken not to apply a physician to give this treatment.

I feel generally "all in" and also have had a cough for a time. What sort of tonic would you recommend? F. A. S.

With the symptoms you describe, I would advise you to consult your family physician or some good dispensary or out patient department of the Boston City Hospital. The symptom of a cough would lead to the conclusion that you may have something of a more serious nature than you imagine.

Shoes For Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

Have two pair of ladies high shoes in good condition, size 4½, and one pair of slippers for a girl, size 12. Send me the name of a needy person. MRS. J. W.

Thank you. Sorry we couldn't find both in one family. We have sent the address of Mrs. E. M. G., for the slippers; shoes and Mrs. M. B. for the girl's.

Few Things to Help Out

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a few things that may help some one out a little, nothing new, which they never use. One suit, two flannelette kimonas, one lawn dress, one dress skirt, four thin shirtwaists, two pairs of shoes, size 4½ or 5. These things have all been worn by one person and I think a 36 could wear them all. If they will be of any use I will gladly send them by parcel post. Would like them to go to one place or person. My daughter has a few things to send to some one, hers are size 24. The address is the same for both.

MRS. A. E. B.

Thank you. Two addresses have been sent to you, Mrs. M. C. a deserted mother, who wears size 36, and Mrs. W-B., who is calling for a friend who wears size 8½.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Three men, all young have sprung forward as transportation giants. Neither the East nor the far West can claim any one of the three. Two hail from Cleveland, the third from Chicago. The Cleveland pair, O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, have become railroad napoleons. Chicago's giant, John Hertz, has taken national leadership in the taxi and bus fields. All three are well under fifty. All three have battled their own way without influence from the bottom.

O. P. Van Sweringen is forty-eight, M. J. is forty-four. They made their first mark as real estate salesmen. Then they became real estate operators. It was their desire to furnish first-class transportation to a section they developed on the outskirts of Cleveland, that their first became interested in transportation. From street railroading they branched out to steam railroading.

Their operations have been singularly successful. At first, Wall Street regarded them lightly. Wall Street has a habit of underlining that nobody of any great caliber lives outside of New York. Today all Street is watching these same Clevelanders more closely than it is watching any other railroad operators in the whole country.

It was shown in this column the other day that they now control almost 10,000 miles of railroad, and that their properties have a total capitalization exceeding a billion dollars.

Their capture of the Erie has caught the imagination not only of Wall Street, but of the American public.

The Van Sweringens shun publicity. They spend no time pouring over the stock ticker in Wall Street brokerage offices. They indulge in no financial hobbies or chicanery. Their main interest is not to stock market manipulation but in railroads.

One of their intimates gives me this brief character sketch of them:

"The Van Sweringen brothers are most unassuming. Their affection for each other is extraordinary. Both are bachelors; they live together; they have one common bank account. They have no partnership agreement, no plan for dividing up profits. When you see one, you see the other. What ever one says is endorsed by the other.

It is common for New York and New York interests to receive only one or two copies of important express in other cities. John Hertz has reversed this process through has Chicago has crept out and taken over the Fifth Avenue bus system in New York. Hertz has had quite as picturesque and dazzling career as the Van Sweringens have had. An outline of it was given in this column recently. If Hertz has any guiding maxim, I should say knowing him as I do, that it would be something like this:

"You and your enterprises can succeed only as you make it possible for all your workers and other associates to succeed.

GEN. ELECTRIC AT NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

General Electric was among a score or more of issues that sold at new highs for the year in trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The bullish action of the railroad shares was another outstanding feature.

Among stocks at new 1924 tops were Chicago & Northwestern, Illinois Central, Union Pacific, Seaboard Air Line pref., Public Service of New Jersey, United Cigar, International Paper, Texas Gulf Sulphur and Pullman.

Studebaker hit its previous top for the year in early afternoon trading. At the same time there were point or better gains for Chandler, American Can, Baldwin, U. S. Steel, "Standard" Oil issues, Republic, General Asphalt, Gulf States, Davison, t. Paul, Hudson, Invincible, Cuba Cane pref., Kresge Dept. Stores, Mack and Norfolk & Western.

Woolworth and Muldoon added over 2, and General Electric over 3.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, Vermont & Massachusetts was up a point. Mergenthaler and Warren Brothers sagged a point each. American Telephone and rights were active, with the latter at its previous high since listing.

Renewed activity and strength of low-priced rail issues turned the general course of bond prices upward. Reports that Chicago & Alton reorganization plans were nearing completion brought brisk buying of the road's bonds, which advanced 2 to 3¼ points to new 1924 top prices.

Other high records included Rails, adjustment 5s, Seaboard adjustment and refunding 4s, and Hudson & Manhattan adjustment 5s.

700 STRIKERS AT CAVITE SUSPENDED

Manila, July 8 (A.P.)—Only about 700 of the Filipino laborers at the Cavite Navy Yard who went on strike last week as a protest against wage readjustments remai nout and these have indicated a desire to return to work today, navy officials said today.

The strikers have been advised that they cannot be reinstated as government employes for three months under a new ruling of the Navy Department because they are considered absentees who have failed to report for six days.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP ARSENAL FAILS

Warsaw, July 8.—An attempt was made to blow up the Lemberg arsenal, an international machine planted by a workman was discovered by another employe who put it out of action in the nick of time and saved the man, turning him over to the police.

According to the authorities, their inquiries show that the prisoner recently arrived in Lemberg from Russia and that he had dealings with several Bolshevik agents.

LIEUT. MAUGHAN TO PAY VISIT TO HUB

Lieutenant Russell H. Maughan, army cross-continent aviator, will arrive in Boston Thursday forenoon for a short visit here. He will be accompanied by Major William N. Hensley, Jr., commanding officer of Mitchell Field, L. I., where the start will be made.

While in Boston Lieutenant Maughan will be the guest of Captain Louis H. Knight, in charge of the army air service in New England, and here on the day-light-to-coast-to-coast flight will speak Thursday evening before the combined commercial clubs of the city.

Time Is Ripe for New Clean Party; Is La Follette the Man?

Senator La Follette's attitude is disappointing. He is going to give the people of the country an opportunity to register their disapproval of political conditions by voting for Senator La Follette for President.

The dissatisfaction of the people with the two old political parties is fundamental.

They do not want merely to register an invidual expression of disapproval over an immediate condition.

They want to register deep-rooted dissatisfaction with the old parties by forming a permanent new party.

They want to abandon altogether the old parties, which have become nothing but the subsidized servants of the big interests, and to form a new party which will represent the will of the people and the welfare of the country.

Mr. Lincoln was even a greater leader than Mr. La Follette, but he did not run for President merely to give the people an opportunity to vote for him personally—merely to register popular disapproval of a temporary condition.

He ran to establish a party on enduring principles of popular rights and human liberties, and to give the high-minded, public-spirited patriotic citizens of the nation an opportunity to assemble and co-operate for the public good in a new party.

The people admire Mr. La Follette personally. But the issue is bigger than any person—any personality.

A great opportunity is waiting for a great man—a great opportunity for great service and for great achievement.

Senator La Follette should call to his side the honest and conscientious public servants in both the old parties who are disgusted with the control of their parties by crooked machines, subsidized by corrupt interests.

The Republican convention at Cleveland did its part to pave the way for a new party.

The Democratic convention in New York is doing its part daily.

The same big financial forces that controlled the Cleveland convention are making every effort to control the Democratic convention through the subtle influence of Wall Street and the rough-neck methods of Wall Street's ally, Tammany Hall.

Self-respecting Republicans all over the nation are anxious to be free from a Republican machine run by Wall Street interests and British bankers for their own selfish ends and without regard for the welfare of the American nation.

Decent Democrats are anxious to get out of a party that smells of the saloon and reflects so largely the subservience of crooked machines to corrupt interests.

It is not a temporary situation, but a permanent condition, that confronts the American people.

And the American people want a new party that will serve the people, at least until it at length in its turn is contaminated by the corrupt influences which now control the old parties.

The opportunity for Senator La Follette is here to do something bigger and better than merely submit a "personally conducted" tour for the presidency.

The opportunity is here to start a new party, a clean party, a popular party, a party conducted in the interests of the people of the United States of America.

The opportunity awaits only the man.

Is Senator La Follette the man?

One of Germany's Problems

A Chance to Help Without Loss

The biggest potash plant in Germany closes down partly, discharging hundreds and cutting off the fertilizing product that raises crops and fights starvation. Peasants have no real money with which to buy fertilizer. Their lands must starve and children must starve because the land is starving.

There ought to be some way of helping a situation of that kind, without sentimentality or philanthropy.

Victor Berger, Congressman from Milwaukee, suggested a plan of German credits that would work, the best plan, and it showed a profit. But Victor Berger is a Socialist, and that settles his plan, although many intelligent bankers approved of it.

The fact that he knows the world's history, and understands international affairs better than 90 per cent. of all Congressmen, of course makes no difference.

It wouldn't do to accept an idea, no matter how good, from a Socialist.

Linen Cheap as Cotton?

It's Possible

Some men in New York think they have discovered a process, and machinery, that will enable them to produce manufactured linen for less than the present price of cotton.

Some serious men are interested in it, but there is no need for the cotton growers to worry YET. They have better reason to worry about the American mania for demanding imported English cotton cloths, which upsets cotton manufacturing in the United States, and gives to England control of cotton prices that ought to be held here in the United States.

What Are Cocktails?

Just Plain Poison

Dr. Drysdale of Cleveland, very able man, tells the American Medical Association that taking a cocktail before dinner is bad because it makes men eat too much, and that prevents their growing old. That's true, but it's not the worst of it.

Putting alcohol into an empty stomach, with its delicate lining, is plain idiocy.

Before you swallow a cocktail, especially one made of bootleg gin or whiskey—rub a little of it into the corner of your eye. Then you will know what it does to the mucous membrane that lines the inside of your body.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

IF a girl of twenty goes looking for romance, they call her an "idealist," but if a woman of forty does it, they call her an "old fool."

Helen Rowland

There are no proposals of marriage any more; the nearest a girl ever receives to that sort of thing nowadays is a veiled "hint" or a tentative "suggestion."

Making a fool of a man is a silly woman's pastime, but making a man of a fool has proved a clever woman's Waterloo.

Congeniality is the spontaneous desire of two people to do the same thing, at the same time, in the same way; but many a pair who believed themselves twin-souls can't even agree after marriage on where to hang the thermometer or when to put the baby to bed.

The frost of indifference may make a bachelor's heart shrink, but nothing will make his love fade so rapidly as too warm a response or too sunny a smile of encouragement.

The compensating joy of living in a one-room-and-kitchenette apartment is that man's collar buttons can't roll very far, and he hasn't so many places to look for his shoes or hide his pipe and his newspaper.

Man is the noblest work of woman; not A woman—but of MANY women; his mother, his nurse, his teachers, his first love, all his other loves—and his wife. But most of the wife's labor consists in remodeling the botch all the others have made.

You seldom see two fat people married to each other; because usually one of the pair gets fat by being cheerful—and the other gets thin doing all the fat one's share of this life's worrying.

Something is bound to snap when man goes into marriage with the idea that his wife is his vassal, and the woman with the idea that she is the husband's "keeper."

* * *

Frankness is the virtue which prompts a man to "confess everything" to his wife—before somebody else beats him to it!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

DOWN in the black mines digging, up in the tall ship's rigging, plowing the western plains, so go the toilers, weary, into Earth's caverns dreary, out to Earth's winds and rains. So, since the first morn, gleaming, over the hills sent streaming owners of rosy hue, toilers have spun romances, taking Earth's wildest chances, seeking the strange and new. Temple and tomb and dwelling still their tasks are telling out where the Nile drifts by; shrines in their secret places, gods with their changeless faces under the changing sky. Workers built ships for sailing on; where the waves were wailing, sat to an unknown sea; theirs were the hands that lifted veils where old Ocean drifted, wrapped in its mystery. Theirs was the long trail going up where the winds were blowing over the mountain height; theirs was the path descending into the dim cavern, sending deep in the Stygian night. And as the world advances still are the great romances wrought by the sons of toil; braving the wind and weather, bringing far lands together, gaining the desert soil. Building the cities' towers, binding the great fall's powers, draining the marsh and swamp; raising a splendid palace, gilding a vast dome's chalice, making a home for pomp. On through the year's transition, this is the toiler's mission, this is the part he plays; steadily, hour by hour, telling that Earth may flower, claiming the desert ways. His are the strange romances, his are the wildest chances, down to the sea and the mines; out in Earth's wind-swept spaces, up in the sun-lit places, builders of homes and of shrines.

Pleads For Children

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to ask for a few things. I am expecting a new baby, the seventh, in a month or so and am not able to get anything for it. I have been waiting and hoping that I could as I did not like to ask for things for myself. Have you anything for a baby two years old and a little girl of twelve? I will not ask for the other children as they have enough.

MRS. A. M. R.

Clothes For Woman

Editor Helping Hand:

This is to inform you that I have a Winter suit, four skirt-waists, a skirt and some other wearing apparel which I should like to give to some poor woman who will be glad to get them. They are in fairly good condition and size 38.

MISS J. M. N.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. E. M. G., left with three children to care for.

Crippled Woman Asks Aid

Editor Helping Hand:

May I come to your little corney and ask for help? I am a poor crippled woman, the only way I can get from one room to another is by the help of my two canes. I have my old mother and father to take care of. My husband gets a little work, but not enough to buy us anything to wear. I wish some one who has clothes they don't want would give them to us. I have only one dress to my name so you see I need things. My mother wears size 46 and I take 50.

MRS. D. G. J.

Winter Coat Offered

Editor Helping Hand:

We have a Winter coat which would fit a girl between twelve and fourteen. Would be glad to give it to one in need.

MRS. A. L. W.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. A. F., mother of five girls, two of whom are twelve and fourteen.

Offers New Shoes

Editor Helping Hand:

I have two pairs of white low shoes never worn, sizes 1½ and 2, with some socks. Will send to any children you send the address of.

MRS. M. S. K.

Thank you. Mrs. E. McL.'s little daughter will be glad to get the smaller shoes and the small daughter of Mrs. C. E. H., will be delighted with the larger.

Just Able to Get By

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband is not well and has not had much work for years and all I can do is to get by. I have eight children and they have almost no clothes. They are a boy of fourteen, girls thirteen, eleven, and nine, two boys eight and six and two little girls five and one-half. If you can do anything please, I would be very much thankful. I wear size 34 or 36 clothes and am short. I will use the initials R. A. L.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON RHYME

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I HAVE never got over the feeling that inventing rhymes is a task for children. I can understand how seven-year-old children can say

Smarty, smarty
Had a party,

and laugh in ecstacy at their rare invention, but why in earth a grown up mind wants to twist his thought around to make it sound like another thought, which has no relation whatever to it, that I cannot grasp.

And I set it down here, for the comfort of honest and younger folk, who think as I do and dare not express their opinion, that to me rhymes are fitting enough in Mother Goose, but what Tennyson or Browning had to say might have been infinitely better said if their ideas had been expressed in a straight-forward sequence of words, arranged in accordance with the genius of our language.

Take a familiar quotation from Browning, in "A Grammarian's Funeral":

"That low man seeks a little thing to do,
Sees it and does it;
This high man with a great thing to pursue,
Dies ere he knows it.
That low man goes on adding one to one—
His hundred's soon hit;
This high man aiming at a million
Misses a unit.
That has the world here—should he need the next,
Let the world mind him.
This throws himself on God and unperplexed
Seeking shall find him."

The first impression a candid reader would get from this, if he did not know who wrote it, is that someone had rather a noble thought and expressed it in a remarkably amateur and silly way.

The two lines "His hundred's soon hit" and "Misses a unit" are pure doggerel. To make "soon hit" and "unit" rhyme is jingle of the nursery level. Also, pardon my French, making "one to one" rhyme with "million" is a bird.

Just how a man can write that sort of stuff and "put it over," as they say in the street, is one of the unfathomable mysteries to me.

The essence of poetry is not rhyme. It is symbolism, or parallelism. That is, it consists in giving to a vague thought or impression a clear outline, a beautiful and comprehensible form.

Shakespeare expresses it well:

"And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown,
The poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothings
A local habitation and a name."

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON REAL MATHEMATICS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

IN the letters of many correspondents I find a gratifying interest taken in my suggestion that people in general should learn more mathematics than they are in the habit of doing, either in school or after school days. Modern science is placing itself firmly on a mathematical basis. This is true of branches of science, such as chemistry and electricity, which in their beginnings were regarded as purely experimental and totally unconcerned with "x," "y" and "z."

This is Science's day, and you must follow Science's banner or drop out of the procession. But that fact need awake no apprehension of great difficulties to be overcome. After all, the kind, or degree, of mathematical knowledge required to follow some of the most abstruse results of recent scientific progress is not beyond easy acquirement by any intelligent person. You don't have to be a skilled computor; you only need to get a clear notion of the principles. And much of modern mathematics is extremely interesting, even fascinating. And a large part of its fascination is due to its intense practicality. It is the boiled-down essence of common sense. Nothing pleases like that.

Mr. Bertrand Russell has done no service to mathematics with some of his epigrammatic paradoxes, such as the statement that "mathematics may be defined as the subject in which we never know what we are talking about, or whether what we are saying is true."

Such a statement might easily drive an earnest seeker after knowledge to an entirely false conclusion concerning the value of mathematical work. No concrete subject is ever illuminated by brilliant word spinning or by carrying it into the clouds of "philosophy." The only kind of mathematics that is of real, of inestimable, use is the concrete kind, which addresses itself directly to common sense, and the tribunal of universal experience.

I have come upon a recently published book, which seems to me to present mathematics in a way calculated to throw a great deal of illumination upon the whole subject for the beginner.

It is significantly entitled "Real Mathematics." Its author, whom I do not know, is an English engineer, Mr. Ernest G. Beck. In direct opposition to Mr. Russell's confusing dictum, Mr. Beck states, as the object of his book, that "it permits (as the human mind demands) the visualization actual or mental—of the various states and changes which are implied by the operations and processes employed in mathematical calculation and investigation, and thus brings mathematics within the grasp of every normal, average human being—for the man in the street can understand the realities of common life as well as the most learned professor, if those realities he presented to him in physical form."

This is excellent. It enforces the sound truth that real mathematics, does "know what it is talking about," and does know "whether what it is saying is true." Any kind of mathematics that doesn't know may safely be ignored by people who are governed in their thinking and their doing by the realities of existence.

I am sure that careful reading of such a book as Mr. Beck's could not fail to clear up many difficulties of comprehension and discourage the beginner in mathematical study.

In such study everything depends upon the point of view taken at the start, and much also depends upon first impressions, which ought to be not only correct but clear and definite. One correspondent writes me that he fails to grasp the use of letters in algebra to represent unknown or undetermined numerical quantities.

This shows the need of the preliminary clearing up of the ground contemplated in the book that I have referred to. It sometimes happens that mathematical processes are so truly peligrin that the beginner looks right through them without seeing them. He cannot believe that such simple things can possess the powers that are ascribed to them.
